WRIT WILL HOLD UP DECISION ON WALKER'S ACTS

Litigation May Hold Back Decision Until After November Vote.

MAYOR IS LEGALISTIC AND WITTY AT TRIAL

Fends Off Implications That He Used Office for Gain; to Quiz Seabury.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—A threat of time-consuming court action today thrust itself into Gov. Roosevelt's investigation into Mayor James J. Walker's fitness to remain as chief executive of America's first city.

The litigation menace to an early disposition of the case arose when a supreme court judge granted a writ calling upon Mr. Roosevelt to defend his power of judging the mayor. The governor agreed to withhold a decision until after the supreme court meets on August 19. Further litigation would possibly hold back the governor's final word until the national election next November, when his Democratic candidacy for President will be submitted to the voters.

Legal advisers to the governor said that was unlikely, since such an important matter would insure speedy action at all courts.

Walker Denies Bus Charge.

Pending off all implications that he used his office for personal gain, Mayor Walker denied to Gov. Roosevelt that he worked for a bus franchise to favor a friend and was cut in on a stock market transaction because of influence he might exercise over city contracts.

The end of the second day of the hearing before the New York Governor left one of the most important charges, that involving the missing accountant, Russell T. Sherwood, still untouched. The hearing will be resumed next Monday afternoon.

Mr. Walker, emotional and excited in his first appearance before Mr. Roosevelt, was calm, legalistic in his role as witness today. There were flashes of Walker wit.

When it was mentioned that Mr. Walker's name was dropped from a stock account with Paul Block, the publisher, because an income tax collector said "it might look bad for the mayor," Mr. Walker remarked:

"I don't know the income tax man, but he certainly is a prophet."

Compared to Suzanne.

Mr. Roosevelt, referring to the biblical maiden Suzanne, falsely accused by her admirers, laughingly added:

"I will not say that his honor is exactly in the position of Suzanne ——"

The mayor cut in with "I sometimes feel like it."

"When I used the word 'beneficence,'" said Mr. Walker, referring to Block's generosity, "I didn't know I was to be on trial for my English."

Mr. Roosevelt's composure was snapped today when John J. Curtin, Mr. Walker's attorney, stubbornly denied the admissibility of a Block letter.

"See here Mr. Curtin," shouted the governor, "I happen to be a lawyer and I know that remarks of that kind are wholly unnecessary to the Governor of the State."

But still Mr. Curtin persisted.

Governor Becomes Angry.

The governor, his eyes blazing, his clenched hands beating a tattoo on the table, said: "If you want to make a ruction about it, I'll get someone to come up here and tell about it."

Mr. Walker categorically denied accepting money from the Equitable Bus people for a European trip; said when he acquired Reliance Bronze and Steel bonds he didn't know the company made traffic posts which the city bought, and disclaimed any selfish motive behind the stock with Paul Block which netted him $246,000.

As today's session opened, the governor explained that both Samuel Seabury, Walker chief accuser, and Walker himself would be permitted to ask questions, and added:

"If the mayor or his counsel wishes to cross examine any witness whose testimony is included in the record of the Hofstadter committee, I shall make it possible for them to do so."

Roumania's Farm Debts Law Will Be Revised

Bucharest, Roumania, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Premier Vaida-Voevod told Parliament today that there will be a revision of the agrarian debts conversion law, which provided for 50 per cent reduction of virtually all agricultural debts and gave debtors 30 years in which to pay the other 50 per cent.

The premier, who succeeded yesterday in forming a new ministry, also informed parliament that the petroleum industry would be reorganized to stimulate exports.

Japanese Swimmers Replace U. S. in Lead

Nippon Victory in 100-Meter Backstroke Ousts America From Top in Olympics; Miss Poynton Wins High Dive.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

Olympic Swimming Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The spell of the Orient pervaded the aquatic carnival of the tenth Olympiad today, as Japan swept into the team leadership with only one day to go.

Olympic records fell in three events. The championships moved toward their conclusion before a capacity crowd of 12,000.

Strangely, the only record yet to survive the wholesale submersion was that of the 100-meter backstroke which was the scoring vehicle on which the Nipponese rode into the team lead over the United States, sweeping the first three places.

On the other hand, Uncle Sam's mermaids continued to better their standing. Suffering from dislocated ribs and a back injury which she sustained in practice yesterday, Dorothy Poynton, 16-year-old Hollywood girl, won the high diving championship in the morning with 40.26 points.

The event provided another sweep for the United States, with Georgia Coleman, of Los Angeles, winner of the springboard title, taking second place. Marion Dale Roper, University of California at Los Angeles coed, was third.

As a closing gesture, the American women's relay quartet left the rest of the world in its wake as it sliced 9.6 seconds off the Olympic record for 400 meters, winning in 4 minutes 38 seconds.

Masaji Kiyokawa, a Nipponese high school lad of 16, took command of the 100 meter backstroke race from the bark of the gun, and steadily in-

STUDENT UPRISING IN CHILE DEFEATED

Adherents of Grove, Leader Davila Exiled, Routed in Santiago.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Two army regiments and large detachments of armed police conquered 400 students in a battle at the University of Chile today and quickly snuffed out a revolt aimed at overturning the government.

The uprising lasted exactly an hour and a half. It resulted in three deaths—a police officer, a student and a boy bystander—and there were unconfirmed reports that five others were killed. Twenty persons were wounded.

The purpose of the revolt was to restore Col. Marmaduke Grove in control of the government in place of Carlos G. Davila, former Ambassador at Washington, who now heads the Chilean Socialist regime.

The rebellion started at 5 p. m. and ended at 6:30. As soon as the students, who had seized the university, saw the two regiments of troops they abandoned their barricades and fled, racing away from heavy rifle fire. All except 50 of them were captured.

Previously a company of police had rushed the Administration Building and after hand-to-hand fighting had made prisoners of 36 students, 12 of whom were wounded.

The movement was an attempt to duplicate the story of last summer when students barricaded themselves within the university and precipitated a series of demonstrations which resulted in the ousting of President Carlos Ibanez.

Sniping fire by the police was replied to by student marksmen who took up positions in the windows of the university. Gunfire could be heard throughout Santiago.

It was reported that student emissaries had approached enlisted men of the army during the day in an attempt to get several military units to joint with them. But soldiers were not involved in the fighting at the university.

Aviatrix Abandons Plan To Accompany Williams

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Elvy Kalep, 27-year-old Esthonian aviatrix, announced today she had abandoned her intention to fly to Greece with Roger Q. Williams because she was suffering from nervous indigestion, and also because her husband asked her not to make the trip.

CLARKE'S SKULL PUT ON DISPLAY IN COURT

Expert Criminologist Shows It as Suicide Evidence; Jury Visits House.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The jurors trying Capt. W. N. Lancaster for the death of Haden Clarke late today visited the scene of the shooting after they had seen Clarke's skull introduced in evidence and had heard his death described as suicide by a criminologist.

The jury, accompanied by attorneys for the State and defense, Judge H. F. Atkinson and court bailiffs, inspected the former home of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, where Clarke was mysteriously shot on the night of April 21. Lancaster, who had lost the love of the Australian aviatrix to Clarke, was in the room with him when he was shot. He said it was suicide.

To the obvious astonishment of the jury and the courtroom spectators, the skull of Clarke was brought into the courtroom today by a member of the medical commission which conducted an autopsy.

Testimony concerning the skull, which showed holes where the bullet entered and left the head, was offered by Arthur H. Hamilton, of Auburn, N. Y., whose experience in the field of criminology and ballistics was questioned closely by the State.

"There is not a scintilla of evidence here," Hamilton said, "to show that Clarke was murdered."

"Are you sure Clarke was not murdered?" asked Defense Counsel J. M. Carson.

"I am absolutely sure," Hamilton repeated with emphasis. "There is every indication of suicide and nothing in the world to give the slightest indication of homicide."

Dr. M. H. Tallman, one of a commission of four specialists who conducted the autopsy, brought the skull into the courtroom. Spectators leaned forward eagerly to observe the

Poindexter, Naval Aid To Hoover, to Marry

Denver, Colo., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The engagement of Yvonne Mitchell, of Denver, to Lieut. Comdr. Gale Poindexter, naval aid to President Hoover and son of Miles Poindexter, former United States senator from Washington, was announced by her parents here today.

Miss Mitchell and Count Alexander Vedrinski, exiled Russian nobleman, were divorced early this year. They were married in Paris in October, 1931.

2 Women Pilots 8 Hours Up In Try for Refueling Mark

Mrs. Thaden, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Marsallis, of San Antonio, Circle Over New York Field in Seeking Feminine Endurance Record.

Curtiss Field, Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—A couple of young women trying to set a new endurance flying record for their sex plucked a supper of chicken soup and chicken salad from a refueling plane tonight and settled down to spend their first night aloft.

They passed their eighth hour in the air at 11:17 p. m. (Eastern standard time) with their motor humming prettily and no indication of trouble. They had enough gasoline when they took off to fly until tomorrow morning before refueling for the first time.

The fliers, Mrs. Frances Marsallis, of San Antonio, Tex., and Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Baltimore, Md., left the ground at 3:17 p. m. (Eastern standard time), and began circling over the field.

Shortly after their take-off a plane piloted by William Scott, jr., 18, crashed near Glen Cove, leading to a report that the endurance fliers had cracked up. Scott was removed to a hospital seriously injured.

Both Mrs. Marsallis and Mrs. Thaden are experienced pilots. Each has a transport pilot's license and before the take-off they expressed confidence in their ability to better the present record of 122 hours and 20 minutes set by Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper in Los Angeles last year.

For several days the two women had been testing their plane and

HITLER DEMAND FOR CONTROL IN REICH REJECTED

Von Papen Fails to Yield, Despite Threat of Opposition.

NAZI CHIEF'S CHANCE TO RULE SEEN FADING

Will Meet Hindenburg Today in Final Effort to Get Chancellorship.

Berlin, Aug. 12 (U.P.).—Adolph Hitler made his formal demand tonight for the chancellorship of the Reich—and was turned down.

Threatening the "most strenuous opposition" to Chancellor Franz von Papen's cabinet if it failed to yield, the Fascist representatives submitted Hitler's demand to the government leader, Col. Von Papen, speaking in behalf of himself and President Paul von Hindenburg, firmly but politely declined.

The Fascist envoys, Capt. Ernst Roehm and Commander Count Wolf Helldorf, then retired to communicate the result of the conference to Hitler, who is in the vicinity of Berlin.

Violence Plans Denied.

Several thousand storm troopers of Hitler's brown shirt army of 400,000 are concentrated within 45 miles of the capital, although Count Helldorf has denied they were planning any violence to put Hitler in power.

The government's formal rejection of the Hitler demand does not necessarily mean that the Fascist leader has given up all hopes of becoming chancellor.

It did indicate, however, that his chances were much less than they had been in the last few days and the government leaders were optimistic negotiations eventually would lead to placing Hitler in the vice chancellorship, with an agreement for Fascist dominance of Prussia as a compensation.

This optimism was not shared by sources close to the Fascist leader.

To Meet Leaders.

As the negotiations stood tonight, Hitler appeared considerably less certain of heading the Reich's cabinet, but no decision will be definite until after he confers personally with Col. Von Papen and President Hindenburg.

He will see the chancellor tomorrow morning and, in the afternoon, will be received by the president.

The outcome of these interviews, which originally were scheduled for today, is expected to determine whether the Fascists must be satisfied with control in Prussia and merely a share in the Reich's government.

The Hitlerites were believed to favor President Hindenburg's plan for a nonparty cabinet over the alternative plan for a coalition government, in which the Catholic center party might be expected to participate on condition that the Fascists agree to continue parliamentary government and recognize the constitution.

Hitler came to a secret place near Berlin late today from Munich, while false rumors were being circulated abroad that he had been assassinated.

Striking Farmers Seize Milk Trucks

Iowans, Demanding Higher Prices, Give Captured Food to Poor.

Le Mars, Iowa, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Reports of violence were received today from northwest Iowa, where some farmers have organized a "strike" for higher prices. Five milk trucks were seized near Kingsley and the milk distributed to the poor.

Court action was reported imminent against two Plymouth County farmers alleged to have destroyed 300 pounds of cream because a truck driver from Cherokee refused to observe the nonselling movement.

The Farmers' Holiday Association of Iowa asked its members to "strike" Monday by refusing to sell produce for 30 days unless fair prices are received. Buyers here reported that there is danger of a serious shortage of milk, eggs and butter fat, but there apparently was no shortage at Cherokee.

Cather, of Winchester, In Congressional Race

Winchester, Va., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—State Senator T. Russell Cather tonight became the seventh candidate for Congress from the new Seventh District.

Senator Cather said he regarded immediate and drastic reductions in governmental expenditures the most important issue. He pledged himself to support the Democratic party's prohibition plank in its entirety, although he said he believes in and practices temperance.

CAPITAL BUDGET ESTIMATES CUT BY $10,000,000

Requests Made Public by Commissioners After Economy Study.

FOLLOWS WARNING ON DROP IN REVENUE

Total to Reach Congress Due to Be Nearly Same as Present Year.

Having practically completed their slashing of the department estimates for the fiscal year 1934, the District Commissioners late yesterday made public the requests, but refused to reveal the recommendations of reductions made by the newly created economy committee.

The total estimates, including permanent and indefinite appropriations, amount to $48,124,000, almost $10,000,000 under the estimate submitted last year. This compares with the 1933 District appropriation, including special and indefinite, of $44,497,622.

Although Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, chairman of the economy committee, had stated more than a month ago that the committee's recommendations would be made public after being reviewed by the Commissioners, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, announced definitely last night that they would not.

Praises Committee.

Dr. Reichelderfer spoke highly of the work of the committee in its conception of the needs of the District as a whole, rather than of each department, and added that its report had been helpful in drawing up the budget which will be submitted before September 1 to the Bureau of the Budget. The recommendations were not followed, however, in every particular, he explained.

While the commissioners are prohibited by law from revealing figures on the estimates they send to the Budget Bureau, there is no restriction, so far as is known, which prevents them from making public the economy committee's recommendations.

The departmental estimates are remarkably modest in their demands as compared with the last few years. This is the result of a warning sent out by Auditor Donovan, when the estimates were called for. In a formal statement he reminded the department heads that the District government faces a decrease in revenue from taxation and that its surplus has disappeared and its working capital fund has dropped from $3,000,000 to $1,800,000.

Budget Nearly Same.

Because of this conservatism in the estimates, it is likely that the Commissioners have not slashed the 1934 requests as greatly as they did the 1933 estimates. The budget as it reaches Congress will doubtless not vary more than $2,000,000 from the total appropriations for this year.

A glance through the departmental totals reveals few figures that are higher than the 1933 appropriations. Requests for new construction, outside of schools, are at a minimum.

Requests for any further appropriation for continuation of the municipal center project are noticeably absent. This work, started so ambitiously during the height of the prosperity period, is likely to be retarded for several years. Last year only $222,000 was appropriated but the Commissioners were authorized to

Cintas Cuba's New Envoy to America

Rail Executive and Financier to Succeed Ferrara as Ambassador.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Oscar B. Cintas, Havana business man, who has commercial interests in many parts of the world, has decided to accept the ambassadorship at Washington, it was learned today.

Senor Cintas has informed President Machado of his decision, but no official statement will be made until the Department of State at Washington has signified its approval. This is considered only a formality.

The ambassador-designate is vice president of a Cuban company affiliated with the American Car & Foundry Co. and is an executive of the United Railways of Cuba. Orestes Ferrara resigned as ambassador to the United States in May.

Hoover's Liquor View Lauded and Attacked

Many Wets and Drys Believe Clear Solution of Problem Is Offered, While Democrats Say Proposal Is Identical With Senator Glass'.

(Associated Press.)

A variety of comment was drawn forth yesterday by President Hoover's stand for a change in the prohibition laws.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said the Chief Executive's pronouncement will not get the votes of the wets away from the Democrats and will not satisfy "the moral conditions of the drys who elected him four years ago."

Representative Rayburn, of Texas, who conducted the preconvention campaign of Speaker Garner, termed the Hoover address "a 50-50 speech, 50 per cent wet and 50 per cent dry." The President, he said, "gave both the wet and dry partisans in the audience an opportunity to applaud vociferously."

Canon William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation and a member of the Prohibition Board of Strategy, called for organization of a third party in view of the President's advocacy of a change in prohibition.

"Mr. Hoover's desertion of the dry cause," he said, "calls for a startling and dramatic protest of conscience on the part of patriots which can best be expressed by the organization of a new party, for both parties have failed to remedy in this depression the economic and moral needs of the people."

Representative William E. Hull, of Illinois, a Republican, said that as one of the antiprohibition leaders he indorsed Mr. Hoover's statement.

"It will prevent the saloon from

DISCHARGE FACES 60 MORE U.S. WORKERS

Trade Commission to Ask Comptroller to Rule on Right of Release.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Sixty more indefinitely furloughed Government workers were threatened with discharge yesterday as Federal Trade Commission officials prepared to ask the Comptroller to rule on the commission's right to release them.

Secretary Otis B. Johnson said the commission must either dismiss them outright or impound in the Treasury $20,000, representing one-twelfth of their salaries to comply with the Comptroller General's recent far-reaching decision.

As the commission can not spare $20,000 from its curtailed funds, this would mean workers now active on the rolls will have to be added to the indefinite furlough list if the group now furloughed is not dropped, he said.

The economy act, however, requires that employes be furloughed rather than discharged. Secretary Johnson said he will ask the Comptroller if this provision must be rigidly applied in such a dilemma as the commission now faces.

The Federal Trade body, one of the hardest hit by appropriation cuts of all the Government agencies, has released 83 workers altogether since the economy law was enacted. Of these, 60 were placed on indefinite furlough. The last group of 32 was let out last month.

The commission's problem is similar to that faced by the Federal Farm Board, which likewise was hit by the Comptroller's latest impounding rule, forcing a month's salary to be turned back to the Treasury whether or not the furloughed employe works one day in the year.

The Federal Farm Board has just met the situation by dismissing outright 35 expert employes who were on furlough, but who did not have classified status. The board still is considering the release of another large block of furloughed workers.

Under the present law, furloughed employes take precedence over those discharged outright on the Civil service reemployment rolls. With vacancies at a premium, this means any worker who is dropped from his furlough status has little chance of soon getting back in the Federal service. The Civil Service Commission is attempting to remedy this by asking the President to place both groups on an equivalent plane for reemployment purposes.

DECISION OF GIFFORD TO RESIGN ACCEPTED

President Commends Record of Unemployment Aid Group Chieftain.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday accepted the resignation of Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief, and said he would name a successor within the next few weeks.

"While I have found it possible to carry on somewhat longer than I originally anticipated," Gifford's letter said, "I reluctantly feel that I can not, because of other obligations and duties, undertake the work for another winter.

"In resigning I wish to express my deep appreciation of the opportunity of having served under your leadership in an undertaking so vitally important at this time."

The President's letter to Mr. Gifford, head of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., follows:

"I have your letter of August 5, and deeply regret that the time has expired during which you undertook to make the sacrifice entailed by directing national coordination of unemployment relief agencies.

"I recognize full well the difficulties it has imposed on you amongst your other duties and obligations, and I can not, of course, ask you to continue over the coming winter.

"I do wish to take this occasion to express the appreciation I have, and that I know the whole of our people have, for the notable contribution to public service you have made during these difficult times.

"I am greatly indebted for your willingness to be helpful in an advisory and consulting capacity in setting up coordination work for next winter, and will depend upon you. Early in the fall we shall be able to see more clearly the problems before us, and the measures of coordination which will be required for the winter. I trust the national and State members will hold fast."

Indiana Senate Passes Dry Referendum Bill

Indianapolis, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—By a vote of 33 to 14 the Senate of the Indiana General Assembly today passed a bill providing for a referendum at the fall election on two phases of the liquor question.

Under the provision of the bill the voters would be given an opportunity to express the desires as to repeal of the Wright "bone dry" law, the State enforcement act, and on the question of making any national inforcement regulations applicable to the State.

Daughter of U. S. Consul Is Safe After Kidnaping

Stewart E. McMillin Blames Abduction of Child, 5, From Park in Warsaw on Revenge Following Discharge of Nursemaid From Household.

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Patricia McMillin, 5-year-old daughter of United States Consul Stewart E. McMillin, was kidnaped from a public park here today and several hours later was found in a shop in a distant part of Warsaw. She tearfully told her parents she had been taken from the park by a man she did not know.

Patricia and her 4-year-old brother spent the afternoon in a public park in charge of their nurse. The nurse said the girl disappeared behind some bushes and when she did not come back park authorities were informed. Their search at first was vain.

Mr. McMillin expressed suspicion that his daughter had been kidnaped in revenge for the fact that a nursemaid had been discharged from the household.

Patricia is a pretty child with auburn hair. The park where she and her brother were playing with other children, is near the American Embassy.

(Associated Press.)

Stewart E. McMillin has been consul in Warsaw since December 6, 1930.

Mr. McMillin, 42, is a native of Arkansas City, Kans. He attended business school and the University of Kansas, taking degrees there in 1914 and 1917. He entered the diplomatic service September 14, 1917.

At the State Department it was said no report of the daughter's kidnaping had been received.

HOOVER SPEECH HAILED AS BEST OF HIS REGIME

White House Is Flooded With Telegrams on Acceptance.

"MORE THAN HAPPY," PRESIDENT DECLARES

Wets and Drys Unite in Expressing Satisfaction; New Trade Plans Cited.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

An unprecedented flood of congratulatory telegrams rolled in upon the White House yesterday to appraise President Hoover that his acceptance address Thursday night in Constitution Hall excited a more cordial response throughout the country than any previous utterance of his public career.

Augmenting the wave of spontaneous ten-word radio applause which began to flow in over the public wire systems Thursday night while the President still was on the air, hundreds of additional commendatory messages were received over the White House private wires throughout Friday.

Swamped in congratulations and good wishes in their tiny soundproof wire room, veteran telegraphers at the Executive Offices could not recall a comparable day's business since Woodrow Wilson delivered his historic fourteen points address before Congress in January, 1918.

More Than Happy.

At a press conference yesterday afternoon President Hoover declared he was "more than happy" over the generous response to his address.

"We have the greatest flood of telegrams ever received at the White House in one day as a result of last night's speech," he said. "The volume has been so great that it will be utterly impossible for us to send personal acknowledgments, but I wish to express through the press of the country my personal appreciation for each message."

Wets and drys, alike, from widely scattered cities pledged their support of the President's demand for a "constructive change" on prohibition, but a new note of economic confidence dominated in the heap of messages made available to newspapermen yesterday afternoon.

Henry Ford, who long has been a militant advocate of national prohibition, lauded the acceptance address in the warmest terms, and Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, and a leader in the defense of the eighteenth amendment, wired the President to "please count on my support in any way possible."

The text of Mr. Ford's message follows:

"Your fire in the Lincoln courthouse is still burning, and this morning I added a log to it. Every one whom I have seen is greatly heartened by the evidence you have given of a strong grasp of affairs and of courage and energy in dealing with these times. The speech will have a tremendous and permanent effect in stabilizing the thought of the people. I think all our citizens are proud of their President today."

Dry Compliments Courage.

Mr. High's message read:

"As a dry, I welcome your courageous prohibition declaration. It opens a way for the Nation's dry forces to return to the fight against liquor. Please count on my support in any way possible."

Typical of the response of many business leaders was the telegram of George M. Verity, president of the Verity Flour Mills, Middletown, Ohio.

"It showed a suffering Nation a broad highway, rather than a narrow, winding trial, to lead us out of the plight into which a World War had plunged it," he wired. "The speech will stand in history as a masterpiece."

Meanwhile, Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, leader of the House

FORD SEES NATION PROUD OF HOOVER

His "Comprehensive Grasp of Affairs" and Liquor Views Extolled.

Detroit, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Henry Ford today expressed strong approval of President Hoover's speech of acceptance.

The motor manufacturer, an unyielding supporter of prohibition, said that the President's stand on this issue shows "no change on fundamental principle."

"He is still on the side of decency and sobriety in the family and the Nation and against any encroachment by liquor," Mr. Ford said.

Mr. Ford several times previously had said that President Hoover would have his support in his campaign for reelection. As he made his statement here today he also sent the President a message of congratulation.

Has "Courage and Energy."

In his statement Mr. Ford said:

"President Hoover's speech was a strong utterance. He gave evidence of a comprehensive grasp of affairs, and his work in the last four years shows that he has tackled his problems with courage and energy.

"From what I have heard from all parts of the country I think that the people feel rightfully proud of their President, and that his speech has had a tremendous effect in building national confidence in our ability to weather this long depression and to emerge stronger for the experience.

"I was particularly interested in the evidence which President Hoover gave of his knowledge of the weak spots in our money system. No man without knowledge or without a determination to tackle this most crucial defect could have spoken as he did. There was not a line in his speech that was calculated to curry a vote.

Is "Straightforward Statement."

"His straightforward statement of the condition of the country satisfies the people that we have a trustworthy, intelligent, hard-working and deep-feeling man in the White House.

"His stand on prohibition shows no change on fundamental principle. He is still on the side of decency and sobriety in the family and the Nation and against any encroachment by liquor. As President he has nothing to do with changing the Constitution, and what he says on this question is just what every one knows—the whole question is in the hands of the people. They have not spoken as yet.

"President Hoover leaves no doubt that personally, as a citizen, he is on the side of the sober, law-abiding people of the United States and that, as President, he is no nullifier of the Constitution. I think he was right in leaving prohibition in a minor place. Any one hearing his speech or reading it must feel that with the world trembling under the menace of imminent collapse, it is mere twiddling with straws to regard prohibition as a major question."

Beverly Clarke, a brother of the writer was in the courtroom. He showed no sign of emotion. Mrs. Keith-Miller and Clarke's mother were not present. Lancaster peered at it with interest. When Hamilton took the stand, the jurors leaned forward in their chairs and listened intently to his testimony.

He said that when the muzzle of a gun is held loosely against the head, powder marks generally show on the surface if the weapon is fired. When the muzzle is held tightly, the powder gases force flesh aside and leave powder and gas marks on the inner tissue, he said, explaining the latter action was known as "ballooning."

The autopsy report of the commission which examined the body three weeks after Clarke's death told of finding a "ballooned" condition.

Suicide, Hamilton said, is indicated in cases where a pistol is held closely to the head in sealed contact. Several spectators jumped as the expert put the pistol tightly to his head and snapped the hammer several times to illustrate his point.

Microscope Is Used.

Hamilton explained he entered the trial at his own suggestion after reading about it in the newspapers.

A miscroscope showed blood and tissue on the front sight of the pistol and indicated it had been held firmly against Clarke's head, he said.

Taking Clarke's skull in his hands, he passed it to one juror who received it timidly. Several other jurors peered at it closely. A number of women spectators left the courtroom as the gruesome object was passed back and forth.

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne in cross-questioning the criminologist dwelt especially on his connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case. The prosecutor moved for a recess until tomorrow after the jury inspection of the scene of death, saying he would need the time for investigation on which to base an effort to discredit Hamilton as an expert.

Heroism of Chow Saves Dogs in Fire

Baltimore Canine Sentenced to Exile for Biting Hailed for Bravery.

Baltimore, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Ming Toy, Baltimore's famous chow dog, who several months ago faced an ignominous death for biting, today was hailed as a heroine.

The chow was instrumental in saving the lives of seventeen other dogs, trapped in a burning barn.

Brought back to Baltimore County last week on a new court order rescinding the death penalty and the subsequent penalty of life exile in Delaware, Ming Toy was placed in a suburban kennel.

Fire broke out in a barn where 20 dogs were housed. Ming Toy, in her kennel nearby, gnawed her leather harness, broke away and either jumped over the 6-foot corral or forced her way through the wire gate. An attendant at the house, some distance away was awakened by Ming Toy's frantic barking, and was able to free seventeen of the dogs in the barn. Three perished.

More Editors Comment On President's Address

Additional editorial comment on President Hoover's acceptance address is published below.

EMPORIA (KANS.) GAZETTE.

He seemed to have a seven-devil lust to let American people know exactly what he was driving at and what he will try to do if they vote for him at the November election. * * * What he said on prohibition clarified the rather vague and somewhat dumb wording of the Republican plank. * * * If he wins—and he should win—he will go into American history as Kipling's fuzzy wuzzy—"a first-class fighting man."

TOPEKA CAPITAL.

A fair criticism of the address is that it is too long. * * * It can not fairly be said that he had not made himself clear on the outstanding issues of the campaign. No part of his address was waited for with so much interest as his pronouncement on prohibition. It in all probability will not suit the extreme wets or the extreme drys.

DENVER POST.

President Hoover's speech was a masterpiece of common sense, forcefulness, clarity and Americanism. As nearly as any public utterance can, it assures his reelection. The President's attitude toward prohibition * * * knocks the props from under Democratic politicians who figured the wets would have to support Roosevelt because Roosevelt is for repeal.

HOUSTON (TEX.) CHRONICLE.

The difference over prohibition between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt (is) reduced to a hair's breadth. Certainly it can not figure seriously in the coming campaign. Voters, both wet and dry, can conscientiously turn their entire attention to the differences over economic principles.

SACRAMENTO BEE.

As an account of his stewardship of the last four years, the acceptance speech is long on fancy, but short on fact. And it leaves the average citizen more deeply puzzled than ever why four more years of Hoover should be even considered by the Nation.

SEATTLE TIMES.

The end of prohibition is at hand. * * * The doom of the futile experiment is sealed in the speech with which Herbert Hoover accepted his party's renomination for President of the United States. * * * Prohibition sinks below the surface of interparty issues. Mr. Hoover's attitude on all issues of moment insures a contest much more close than many citizens had anticipated.

DAYTON NEWS.

The speech is a bold and able effort to sustain a most difficult case. The reader will note a curious silence toward the party which the President leads. For the most part, in his discussion of the achievements of which he boasts, the pronoun, "I" is prominent.

AKRON BEACON JOURNAL.

Upon the whole, Mr. Hoover made a good pleading in support of the general measures forwarded by his administration to improve what he termed "the Nation's economic situation." It was when he came to the prohibition issue that he lacked resolution to face a crisis demanding immediate and reformative action, although going a step further in this direction than his party's straddling convention at Chicago.

MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUUNE.

President Hoover's speech is impossible of misunderstanding. There isn't a straddle in the entire 7,000 words. Those who hoped there would be some evasion of the prohibition question must be disappointed.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The address, we believe, has impressed the Nation with its sincerity, its freedom from narrow partisanship and its sense of solemn responsibility. In this alone it is a most important and timely contribution to the public morale. * * * So far as a candidate can make the issue, Mr. Hoover has changed the pale neutrality of the party into a positive demand for correction of prohibition mistakes.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL.

Mr. Hoover has taken so many thousand words to paint a picture of a leadership that never existed. * * * All the sanctimonious words with which Mr. Hoover winds up his plea can not gild the fact that he accepts the principles and policies which led us to disaster.

DES MOINES TRIBUUNE.

It is conspicuously free from any ambiguities which may demand later explanation. It presents Hoover to the Nation as a candidate in a way that, barring further economic disasters, is very likely to have a growing appeal from now until the election.

HOOVER ACCEPTANCE SPEECH HAILED AS BEST OF CAREER

wet bloc, said after a White House visit that he had told Mr. Hoover "his speech sat sfied my conscience as a wet to vo'e for him."

Taking up his program for stimulating business through Nationwide cooperative action, the President yesterday announced plans for an early conference here with the joint committees of industrialists and financiers recently established in the twelve Federal Reserve districts. The date for this gathering, to which representatives of virtually every branch of commerce will be invited, will be announced Monday. Arrangements for the session figured in 4 of the 25 individual conferences the President held yesterday at the executive offices. Besides receiving 25 callers, Mr. Hoover presided at the regular Friday Cabinet meeting in the morning and held his customary press conference in the afternoon.

The following telegrams present a cross section of the response to the acceptance address available at the White House last night.

James G. Blaine, son of the one-time presidential candidate of the Republican party, wired from Marion, Mass: "The clarity and force of your splendid acceptance speech insures your reelection."

Praise From Tuskegee.

Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute:

"There has been no address or State paper since Abraham Lincoln's second inaugural address that compares with it in clarity, force and genuine statesmanship. I wish heartily to thank you for every word of it, not only as a friend and a Republican but as an humble American."

Charles Lathrop Pack, Lakeview, N. J.:

"Your economic and spiritual acceptance speech inspired our minds, hearts and souls."

Cleveland Newton, a former member of Congress from St. Louis:

"Your acceptance speech a monument of statesmanship, clear, concise, unanswerable."

John D. Harris, Phoenix, Ariz.:

"Your speech was wonderful. I am still that Kentucky Democrat who will help you carry Arizona."

Statesmanship Literature.

William V. Hodges, formerly treasurer of the Republican national committee:

"The literature of American statesmanship has a new classic."

An enthusiastic family in Middletown, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Conrad G. Moller, sent in the shortest message in the lot. Received in Washington shortly before midnight Thursday it said:

"Hurrah, we win."

At least one voter was won over from the ranks of the Jeffersonians. Herbert S. Traub wired from Savannah, Ga.:

"While for past 30 years I have voted the Democratic ticket, happy to say my vote will be for you in November."

Three officers of the Flying Squadron, a prohibition organization, sent a joint wire from Indianapolis which said in part:

"Notwithstanding our conviction that no proposed alternative to the eighteenth amendment can prevent the return of former evils of the liquor traffic and destroy those from which we now suffer, your manifest sincerity and high purpose enable us to trust the cause of prohibition in your hands."

Hoover Talk Received Favorably in Europe

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's speech of acceptance, particularly those parts of it dealing with debts and disarmament, was favorably received in European capitals yesterday, although government officials declined to comment at length until they had received more details.

The Japanese foreign office read into the speech an indirect reference to the Manchurian trouble.

A spokesman for the German government said the speech was evidence that America has come to the realization that intercontinental cooperation is necessary to overcome the world depression, and that Germany accepts that viewpoint.

Italy was interested particularly in references to disarmament. It was said that if Mr. Hoover intends disarmament as "compensation" for debt revision, Italy will be pleased, since she already desires to disarm.

The Parisian newspaper Le Temps said Mr. Hoover's indorsement of Secretary Stimson's stand on the Briand-Kellogg pact means that that stand "has become the very doctrine of the American State."

Huge Parade Will Mark Norfolk's Anniversary

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—One of the most colorful peacetime parades in Norfolk will be held Tuesday as a feature of the week of celebration of Norfok's 250th anniversary.

The parade will be staged under the direction of Director of Public Safety C. B. Borland, and will include in its line of march a detachment off 500 men from the 91st Infantry Brigade, now encamped at Virginia Beach, bands from the first and 116th regiments, 300 sailors and marines from the Norfolk Naval Base, and the Naval Base band, the 111th field artillery band, the fireman's band, Portmouth and Norfolk Legion drum and bugle corps, and Boy Scouts drum and bugle corps.

Thomas Cites Idle In Hoover Attack

Says President Is Wrong in Declaring Business Is Recovering.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the Presidency, criticized President Hoover's acceptance speech tonight, declaring the Republican nominee makes two assumptions, "both of them terribly wrong."

"The first," Thomas told the Graduate Club of the New York University Summer School, "is that this crisis has been adequately met. Says the President: 'We have provided methods and assurances that none shall suffer from hunger and cold among our people.'

"Did no vision of the bonus marchers float before his eyes? Does he not know that in Chicago unemployed workers have built a little city around one of the municipal dump heaps and live on garbage which they forage from it?

"The second of Mr. Hoover's assumptions is equally fallacious. It is that we are in the way out of this depression."

Former Parachute Man Kills Self in Clarksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, Aug. 12.—A long trail of adventure and romance ended today when Dr. T. V. Legros, 67, native of Belgium and former parachute jumper with the Barnum & Bailey circus, killed himself in an upstairs bedroom of his lonely home at Grafton. He mixed two liquid anesthetics together and tossed off the potion, dying within a few minutes. Letters written by him in French and English indicated his desire to end his life.

DEMOCRATS LAUNCH ASSAULT ON SPEECH

Chieftains at Headquarters Say Dry Issue Weak Spot in Hoover Armor.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Prohibition was called one of the "three vulnerable places in the armor of the miracle man" tonight in a concerted Democratic attack on President Hoover's acceptance speech.

Nearly two dozen lieutenants of Democracy, gathered at national campaign headquarters for strategy conferences, agreed to let Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Alfred E. Smith's running mate in 1928, act as critic for all of them.

In a 600-word statement, the Democratic Senate leader from Arkansas assailed the President for his utterances on emergency measures, the tariff and prohibition.

On prohibition he said:

"There is still doubt as to the position of the Republican party and its nominee for President respecting this acute controversy.

Denounces Bootleggers.

"The President denounces bootleggers. All law-abiding citizens do.

"The President denounces the saloon. No political party has championed or sponsored it.

"He advocates a 'practical change' so as to restore to the States the power of regulating the liquor traffic without permitting them to license saloons, but he does not give even a cloudy picture of what changes he favors or anticipates."

On emergency measures Robinaon said the President had "greatly exaggerated the benefits derived from such measures." He asserted the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had "made few loans" and "in consequence, buying power has not been augmented, commodity prices, save in a few instances, continue discouragingly low, old enterprises are at a standstill and new enterprises are not being undertaken."

The third attack was on the President's "unqualified approval of the United States tariff system," Robinson said, "perhaps no other single factor has contributed more to the paralysis of both foreign and domestic commerce than the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, which Senator Watson declared would end the depression and restore prosperity in 30 days."

"Vulnerable Places."

"In addition," concluded Robinson, "to the three points specified as vulnerable places in the armor of the 'miracle man,' let note also be taken of his boast concerning agricultural relief. We should all recognize that in spite of good faith efforts to improve the condition of agriculture, little has actually been done, and the problem persists with all its difficulties and details."

"If the farmers in my State who are selling their wheat at 26 cents can get any comfort from that speech I'll be surprised," said F. W. McLean, secretary of the North Dakota State committee.

Among statements which continued to flow from the Democratic national campaign headquarters, where James A. Farley, national chairman, sat in conference with State leaders from all sections of the country, was the following:

"While Mr. Hoover carried Kentucky in 1928 by a majority of 180,000, the State will this year go for Gov. Roosevelt by a majority of not less than 50,000."—B. P. Wootteen, State chairman of Kentucky.

(Associated Press.)

From Democratic ranks yesterday came a volley of challenges to President Hoover on his acceptance address.

Through the Democratic national committee, they came from James A. Farley, committee chairman, and Senators Pittman, Nevada, and Fletcher, Florida—each questioning Mr. Hoover's past, present and future course in dealing with the current economic stress.

"Same Promises."

Noting the President's reference to a "move from defense to a powerful attack upon the depression," Farley asked: "Is it too much to ask of a candidate for the Presidency that he tell us how he is going to make this widespread assault on economic calamity and why if there are any blue prints of such a battle plan they have not already been acted on?"

Pittman said:

"President Hoover made the same promises yesterday as he made four years ago. The chances of their fulfillment are about what they were then, and are entitled to no more respect than those pledges, which were so tragically miscarried."

On prohibition Farley observed that the President's idea "of repealing the eighteenth amendment without repealing it and giving the States full authority over liquor while forever banishing the saloon by Federal law" was a formula which a good many people had sought without very much success."

Mummified Pair Found in Georgia

Red-Skinned and Curly-Haired Woman and Child Are Unearthed.

Indian Springs, Ga., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The mummified bodies of a red-skinned young woman and a child, clasped in her arms, were unearthed here today by laborers grading the yard of a home site.

At first it was concluded they were Indians, but closer examination revealed that both had curly hair, which was not a characteristic of the American Indian.

Dean Leon P. Smith of Wesleyan College at Macon, Ga., said that such perfect preservation of bodies under the condition described seemed "incredible." He said petrification occurs in limestone formations, but is not found in this vicinity. The bodies were dug out of red clay common to most of Georgia. The hair, skin, fingernails and toenails on the bodies were intact, but there was no evidence of clothing.

ROCKEFELLER'S RUM VIEW HIT BY W.C.T.U.

Former Dry Leader's New Stand Is Declared 100 Per Cent Wrong.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Describing John D. Rockefeller, jr., as a "pitiful case of a good man overcome by the headlines," the executive committee of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union today issued an answer to the philanthropist's recent letter in which he broke away from the dry cause.

The executive committee announced it would distribute this answer to members of the union for use in combatting the campaign of the wets.

"The entire span of wet falsehood is encompassed in one paragraph of John D. Rockefeller, jr.'s, letter to Nicholas Murray Butler, dripping repealist," the committee declared. "It is 100 per cent wrong in every statement."

Paragraph Is Quoted.

The paragraph was then quoted. It summed up Rockefeller's conclusions on the effects of the dry law, speakeasies, increased drinking, law breaking and general disrespect for law.

Quoting from Government sources, chiefly Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition; social investigators, judges and news dispatches, the committee took up Rockefeller's charges against the dry laws one by one in an effort to disprove his contentions.

A letter from Col. Woodcock to Senator Sheppard, of Texas, in which the director said a survey in 1930 indicated consumption of liquor was less that year than in 1914.

"Volume of Truth in Denial."

The committee declared "there is a volume of truth in denial" to Rockefeller's letter.

"Drinking has decreased 65 per cent and the Government has the proof," the statement asserted.

"The crime records offset the headlines; the actual fact is crime is decreasing.

"The arrests for intoxication in the wet City of New York dropped from 74 per 10,000 to 19 per 10,000 in 1930," the report added.

Referring to the charge that there were 20,000 speakeasies in New York, the committee said Government agents located 3,494 possible places where liquor could be sold and only 1,561 in Detroit, and that later 777 closed, as against a rumored 26,000.

The statement quoted the United States Census Bureau as reporting that from 1910 to 1928 the crime rate declined almost 40 per cent.

making contacts with the refueling ship. The seats were removed from their five-place cabin plane, sleeping quarters fitted up inside, and gasoline tanks and a radio was installed. The ship is powered by a 320 horsepower motor.

At the take-off they carried a reserve supply of fuel sufficient for 24 hours of flying. Their plan is to conserve this supply for emergency use in case weather conditions prevent refueling contacts. They plan to refuel twice a day, and should adverse conditions arise over this field arrangements have been made for them to fly either to Hadley Field, New Brunswick, N. J., or to the Municipal Airport at Hartford, Conn., for refueling contacts.

DUCE NAMES ROSSO AMBASSADOR TO U.S.

De Martino Among Five Envoys Retired in Extensive Diplomatic Shake-Up.

Rome, August 12 (A.P.).—Augusto Rosso, sometimes called "The Uncle from America," is to be Italy's new Ambassador to the United States in a far-reaching diplomatic shake-up ordered by Premier Mussolini.

Five ambassadors were retired by the premier's order and there were 22 transfers and many promotions.

Signor Rosso occupied a minor post in the embassy at Washington in 1910, and was counsellor to the embassy in 1922. He is wealthy and a bachelor. He smokes a pipe and speaks English fluently. At present he is director general of a state department bureau which has charge of affairs connected with the League of Nations.

Dino Grande, the former foreign minister, was appointed ambassador to Great Britain two weeks ago. The other transfers affect several countries in South America and all the largest European capitals except Moscow.

Five ambassadors, those at Washington, Paris, Berlin, Warsaw and Madrid, are retired. Atonio Cavichioni, new minister to Venezuela, was promoted from consul general to minister of the second class; Raffaele Boscarelli, made minister to Cuba, was promoted from counselor of legation to minister of the second class; Lodovico Manzini, consul general at San Francisco, was promoted from consul of the second class to consul of the first class.

Mexican Soldiers Bar B. E. F. Entry

Colony Scheme Wrecked Unless Special Order Is Received.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Mexican immigration officers at Juarez said today no bonus marchers from the United States would be permitted to cross the border to colonize in the state of Chihuahua unless special permission is obtained from the minister of the interior at Mexico City.

They added a detachment of troops under Gen. Edmundo Sanchez is stationed at Casa Grandes, near Columbus, N. Mex., to enforce the Mexican immigration laws against any attempts to enter the country forcibly.

Instructions to his followers to gather at Columbus, N. Mex., were issued today at Huntington, W. Va., by Doak Carter, who assumed leadership of a wing of the bonus army disbanded at Johnstown, Pa. Carter expressed hope that a plan satisfactory to Mexican officials for the purchase of tracts of land for colonization purposes could be worked out, although President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico has disapproved the project.

Florida Formally Asks $500,000 of R. F. C.

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Florida's formal request to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $500,000 in emergency funds to relieve unemployment was sent to Washington today.

Gov Carlton and members of his State unemployment relief committee said the sum is sought to "get the State's program started" and that additional Federal aid will be asked later if there is need for it.

HIGHER PRICES NEED IS CITED AT OTTAWA

International Action Urged to Effect End; Tariff Pact Still Studied.

Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Declaring that international action to raise wholesale prices was "urgently necessary," the British imperial economic conference committee on monetary and financial questions announced tonight that the nations of the empire were willing to cooperate with other countries in any practical measures to bring about this end.

Without recommending any specific scheme to boost price levels, the committee recommended action to insure low rates of interest and an abundance of short-term money.

The committee took recognition of the importance of stabilizing exchange rates but held that for the complete solution of this problem it would be necessary to restore conditions that would make possible the satisfactory operation of an international standard. No recommendation was made on the question of which standard is the most desirable.

The Canadian cabinet held a long meeting today to study the Dominion's offer and Britain's counter offers in the negotiations looking toward a bilateral trade agreement.

Conferences Held.

Among other things that Canada has requested is a preferential tariff in Britain of $1.25 a barrel on empire apples and pears, 6 cents a bushel on Canadian wheat, 20 per cent on Canadian lumber, and an increased preference for Canadian fish.

Heads of the delegation from the United Kingdom conferred today and there was another meeting between the British and Canadian experts on policy and between British representatives and those of South Africa and Newfoundland.

Unless Canada can offer something further in consideration of textiles, it was believed that the preferences which eventually be drawn up probably will divert no more than $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 of the Canadian import trade from foreign countries to Great Britain. Competition in the Canadian textile business was described as the keenest in years, with only one large and well-financed concern making any money.

For the most part the general impression was that the conference would wind up on a friendly basis with a number of trade proposals open to further discussions.

U. S. Trade to Stay.

The question of British radios and motion-picture films for Canada, now supplied almost exclusively by the United States, brought an unofficial statement of Canada's attitude on American trade.

It was declared that Canada is not unmindful of the value of trade with the United States and never will see the day when she is unprepared to meet genuine advances. Geography itself prohibits Canada from turning her back on the American market.

Tariffs on both sides were blamed for the fact that whereas Canadian trade with the United States two years ago was $461,000,000 greater than the trade with the rest of the world, it is now only $4,000,000 greater. During the twelve months ended June 1, 1930, Canadian-American trade aggregated $1,329,000,000. It has dropped to an aggregate of $546,644,000, a decline of $783,282,000.

LEGION GROUP VOTES DOWN SAVINGS PLEA

Admiral Byrd's Economy Plan on Postwar Disabilities Loses in Bay State.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The resolutions committee of the Massachusetts department of the American Legion, despite a personal appearance by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in behalf of the National Economy League, voted tonight to report favorably to the State convention a resolution opposing curtailment of benefits now received by veterans.

The Economy League, of which Admiral Byrd is chairman, has gone on record as opposed to veterans' benefits for disabilities not directly connected with service.

The committee also voted to report favorably a resolution demanding repeal of national prohibition.

It decided also to advocate immediate payment of the balance due veterans on adjusted service certificates, to condemn treatment of the bonus army at Washington and to demand immediate modification of the Volstead act as well as repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Although the resolutions committee decided to oppose curtailment of veterans' benefits, Admiral Byrd was conceded a partial victory, since several proposals calling for investigation of the National Economy League were modified, Chairman John H. Walsh, of Waltham, said, as a result of Byrd's appearance.

Byrd told the committee the league, in its efforts to reduce taxation, sought "to secure the elimination of unjustifiable extravagances such as the great, annually increasing expenditure for those veterans of the Spanish-American and World Wars who suffered no disability due to war service, without, however, impairing a just and liberal provision for the dependents of those who lost their lives in war service and for those who in fact suffered disability from war service."

The convention was enlivened by a vociferous welcome to Walter W. Waters, of Portland, Oreg., leader of the lately disbanded bonus forces around Washington. Waters, in a brief address, told something of the conditions that prevailed in the bonus camps.

Because of the number of addresses which featured the session, the resolutions committee, which had a partial report ready, was unable to present it.

Death for Sanjurjo Not Thought Likely

Several Killed in Southern Spain as Revolt Reaction Continues.

Madrid, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, weary and dejected, was taken from the civil jail to the military prison today, his royalist rebellion already a footnote in the brief history of the Spanish republic.

He said nothing during the brief trip and the government authorities refused to disclose for publication any part of the statement they had obtained from him. He is to be tried for treason in a branch of the supreme court.

This in itself is a departure from custom, for heretofore a man suspected of such an offense as the general's would have been taken before a court-martial. Some factions have demanded that he be put to death, but there were indications that his fate would not be so severe.

Loyal Republicans expressed their antagonism to the rebels by attacks on suspected monarchists. One man was killed and three were wounded at Santa Fe when civic guards dispersed a crowd which had fought and burned its way about the city. Another man was killed in a riot there this afternoon. A mob attacked the jail at Seville, seeking to capture and lynch rebel prisoners. A civil guard was killed in that fracas.

250,000 Homeless In Flood at Harbin

Relief Pushed as Cholera Follows High Waters; Trains at Standstill.

Harbin, Manchuria, Aug. 10 (delayed in transit) (A.P.).—The European quarter of Harbin was engulfed in floods today, paralyzing business and making it necessary to close the banks. Residents were in consternation.

The water was a yard deep in the offices of the National City Bank. The district resembled Venice, for all streets were flooded. Instead of ordinary clothing the people wore bathing suits and in order to get around they used all sorts of makeshift boats, including even wooden coffins.

Japanese soldiers cooperated with Chinese municipal officials in relief work. The unprecedented floods have been accompanied by cholera and every one in the city, including Americans, was receiving inoculation.

Officials estimated that 250,000 Chinese and Russians in Harbin were homeless. Japanese troops were posted everywhere to prevent looting.

Destitute Chinese families are reported to be selling female children for $3 each.

Two Argentine Fliers Killed.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Two army aviators were killed today when their plane crashed in Hurlingham, a suburb of Buenos Aires.

LASTING CURRENCY INFLATION BANNED

Mitchell Interprets Rider to Home Loan Law as 3-Year Measure.

(Associated Press.)

A ruling against any permanent expansion of the currency under the Glass-Borah rider to the Home Loan Bank law was issued yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell.

He held that all currency issued against bonds given the circulation privilege by the legislation "must be retired in an appropriate manner" three years from the date of enactment, July 22.

The maximum expansion possible under thelaw has been estimated at $1,000,000,000.

In the opinion requested by the Treasury Department, the Attorney General said, "I find nothing in the legislative history which indicates that it was the purpose of Congress * * * to provide for a permanent expansion of the currency beyond the three-year period."

He observed that the language of the act left some doubt whether its three-year limitation requires "that the circulation privilege of bonds deposited pursuant to that section shall cease three years after the date of the enactment of the act or whether the act merely means that after three years no more of such bonds may be deposited and accorded the circulation privilege, without, however, affecting the circulating privilege of bonds deposited within the three-year period, leaving such circulation privilege outstanding during the entire remaining life of the bonds deposited."

Mitchell, in construing the law as meaning the notes must be retired in three years, cited congressional debates including a statement made in the House that "at the end of three years (the inflation) has got to end, and they have got to be called in, and the contraction of $1,000,000,000, in round numbers, in the currency in this country in 1935 will be upon us."

Mitchell also ruled that the tax on notes issued under the act be one-fourth of 1 per cent semiannually.

NEW SCHOOL PLANS CALL FOR $2,918,920

$500,000 in 1934 Is Sought to Add Structure in Reno Section.

Twenty building projects and five land purchases constitute the new work requested by the Board of Education in the 1934 estimates released yesterday by the District Commissioners. These comprise $2,918,920 of the total of $13,899,884 asked and compare with the $1,568,500 of the 1933 appropriation of $12,162,730 devoted to new projects this year.

The new projects include $500,000 to start the senior high school in the Reno section, Forty-first and Chesapeake streets northwest, and an authorization to enter into a contract for such a building at a cost not to exceed $1,500,000. An item of $30,000 is asked to prepare plans for a senior high school in Manor Park.

HOOVER LIQUOR VIEW LAUDED AND ATTACKED OVER NATION

returning, destroy the bootlegger, and bring the return of temperance and sobriety," he said.

From Oliver W. Stewart and other officers of the Flying Squadron, a dry organization which had previously indorsed him, Mr. Hoover received a telegram saying the speech "reaffirmed and intensified their faith" in him.

"Notwithstanding our conviction that no proposed alternative to the eighteenth amendment can prevent the return of the former evils of the liquor traffic and destroy those from which we now suffer," the message said, "your manifest sincerity and high purpose enable us to trust the cause of prohibition in your hands."

Ira L. Reeves, Western director of the Crusaders, an antiprohibition organization, expressed surprise "that the President spoke as frankly as he did," and added: "He certainly is not so ambiguous as the platform is."

D. Leigh Colvin, national chairman of the Prohibition party, called the President's proposal "amazing," and asserted opponents of liquor could not support him for reelection.

Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, leader of the House Republican wet bloc, approved Mr. Hoover's stand. Leaving the White House, he said he had told Mr. Hoover "his speech satisfied my conscience as a wet to vote for him."

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, told delegates to the national convention at Seattle that time was too short to build up the prohibition party to carry the coming election and advised them to vote "to save the eighteenth amendment" by supporting drys for the House, Senate and State offices.

Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, said:

"On prohibition, President Hoover, in effect, advocates the constitutional amendment proposed by Democratic Senator Glass, of Virginia.

From Lynchburg, Va., Glass, long an outstanding prohibitionist and now proposing submission of a substitute State option amendment with safeguards against return of the saloon, denied having any connection with writing the President's speech. He said Mr. Hoover's stand was "indentical" with the proposal he offered in the Senate.

"Had President Hoover spoken sooner," he added, "the likelihood is that Congress would have adopted my resolution and would now be on the way to a solution of this perplexing problem."

The new Secretary of Commerce, Roy D. Chapin, said the President's words on prohibition were "the clearest things yet uttered by any one."

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, disagreed, saying the words were as "muddled as the Republican plank."

E. A. Van Valkenberg, Philadelphia publisher and prohibitionist, called personally upon the President to congratulate him.

"The President's statement," he said afterward, "is a heartening challenge to the lawlessness of the liquor traffic. He would have the issue faced squarely and determined on the principles of self-government. Both wets and drys have been battling over prohibition, which is merely an experimental method of control, and have lost sight of the basic principle of temperance."

Newark, N. J., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Regarding President Hoover's acceptance speech, the Rev. James K. Shields, State superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, said "President Hoover will be defeated. We're not going to be hornswoggled on this proposition. We shall make it very, very embarrassing for Herbert Hoover."

Mrs. Peabody Deplores "State's Rights" Stand

Boston, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the women's national committee for law enforcement, commenting tonight on President Hoover's acceptance speech, said "the loss of President Hoover does not mean the loss of the eighteenth amendment."

"In his speech of acceptance," Mrs. Peabody said, "President Hoover indorsed the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He approves State control of liquor which we had before the Federal amendment. He is the first President * * * to agree to yield the Federal Constitution to State's rights.

"He has spoken twelve times in defense of this law. The thirteenth time he renounces it, giving as his reasons well-known statements of extreme wets.

"* * * Prosperity is desirable, but good government is essential. Allegiance to the Constitution, the supreme law, is the only hope for continuance of stable and safe government."

Many readers write that they are preserving the recipes published here weekly as an informal home cook book.

Winners of the book prize and honorable mention this week are:

VEGETABLE SOUP MIXTURE.

1 peck tomatoes
6 pounds lima beans
6 pounds peas
3 pounds string beans
6 bunches carrots
12 ears corn (cut from cob)

3 bunches parsley.

Prepare each vegetable as for canning. Cut into small pieces suitable for soup and add to prepared tomatoes. Cook five minutes and pack into jars, adding one teaspoon salt to each quart. Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Putting down in brine" used to be more common than it is nowadays, but it should be remembered as another cheap and useful way of holding for winter use some of the vegetables which are not so successfully canned with the ordinary home equipment. String beans, onions, cauliflower, green peppers, cucumbers, green tomatoes, cabbage—all these can be brined and used for pickle. The beans and onions can also be cooked after soaking out the salt, and served in place of fresh vegetables; the green peppers are useful for stuffing; the green tomatoes can be used for pie.

In brining vegetables a salt solution may be used, but some vegetables contain enough water to make their own brine when salt is added. Some vegetables contain enough sugar to cause fermentation, making an acid brine—cucumber pickle and sauerkraut, for example. Pickled corn is made by dry salting without fermentation. The fresh corn is cooked in boiling water for ten minutes, to set the milk. Then it is cut off the cob, mixed thoroughly with one-fourth its weight of fine salt, and packed.

The following recipe for brining snap beans is given by the United States Department of Agriculture:

Select white or green stringless beans and remove the tip from each end. Wash the beans well and place them in a 10 per cent or 40-degree brine. This is a pound of salt in 9 pints of water. A salinometer helps to tell the strength of the brine. Add salt each day until the reading does not change. When the brine is constant, store the beans in glass jars are sealed do not move them, for ing a close seal of paraffin. After the jars are sealed no not move them, for the liquid will loosen the seal.

The beans can be freshened when needed for pickles or can be used for the table. The cold water method for freshening can be used or the beans placed in three times their volume of cold water and brought to the simmering point and kept there for 20 minutes, and then allowed to cool in the water. Place in fresh water a few minutes and the salt is sufficiently extracted and the beans are ready for use.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

BACON—AND THE WORLD IS YOURS.

IF some one should ask you what bacon and eggs taste like, what would you say?

Most people think a long time and then they say: "Like—like bacon and eggs."

And that's enough. When you say "bacon and eggs" you think of a sunny dining room, and a table set for breakfast. While you're drinking your orange juice, or eating your stewed prunes, the bacon is broiling in the kitchen. You can smell it. You can hear it sizzling.

That sizzling sound is music to the ears. Then the eggs are fried in the bacon fat, and we hear more sizzling. The eggs and bacon are brought in, on a hot platter—the coffee is poured, everybody helps himself to buttered toast or hot biscuits—and what more could a man want to start the day?

When you fry bacon, start with a cold frying pan. Keep the heat moderate, and pour off the fat as it cooks out of the bacon. How long it should be cooked depends on individual taste. Some like it crisp and dry; others like it not quite so well done.

To broil bacon, put it in a rack in a broiling pan, and cook it slowly, at a moderate temperature. Turn it over at least once.

Bacon can be cooked in the oven, too, on a rack, in a baking pan. Remember to use moderate heat.

And don't lose sight of the fact that bacon makes some fine luncheon and dinner dishes.

Did you ever eat "Stuffed Bacon Slices?"

Make a savory stuffing of bread crumbs, onion, parsley, thyme, and celery seed. Something like a poultry stuffing.

When the stuffing is thoroughly heated, put a spoonful on each slice of bacon, roll the bacon, and skewer with toothpicks. Cook in a moderate oven, or under a broiler flame, until the bacon is brown and crisp. If the slices of bacon are very long, cut them in two before rolling. Allow about four of these stuffed bacon rolls for each person at the table.

Here's another substantial bacon dish. Fry five slices of bacon with one large onion. Add to the bacon two cups of cooked spaghetti, two cans of tomato soup, and two-thirds of a pound of American cheese. Heat all together, and serve.

If you're serving liver and bacon don't forget to use at least half as much bacon as liver. I use half a pound of sliced bacon to one pound of sliced liver. I cook the bacon slowly in a skillet, until it is delicately browned, and crisp. Then I take it out of the skillet, and cook the liver in the bacon fat. First, though, I sprinkle the pieces of liver with salt and pepper, and dip them in flour. When the liver is lightly browned, it is ready to serve on a hot platter, surrounded by the crisp slices of bacon. No garnish, although I am aware of the fact that no woman would allow that dish to come to the table without a decoration of parsley.

I'll admit that a bit of parsley is very becoming to a dish of liver and bacon, but I say why paint the lily, or throw perfume on the violet?

SEASONAL RECIPE WINS AWARD OF $5

Palates Will Be Stirred by Mrs. Elliott's Offering, "Platter Temptation."

Even the most apathetic of palates should be stirred from its hot weather lethargy by the allurements of "Platter Temptation."

This is the name of the winning recipe in The Post Food Page contest. It was submitted by Mrs. Katherine Elliott, of 1010 Sixteenth street northwest, who was awarded the weekly $5 prize.

The formula follows:

2 lbs. hamburger
2 eggs.
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 onion
1 can tomatoes
1 can corn
1 can peas
6 potatoes

Place hamburger in mixing bowl. Add two beaten eggs, pepper, salt and finely chopped onion. Mix well and shape into loaf. Place in roaster and pour over tomatoes, corn and peas. Bake in moderate oven one hour and add potatoes which have been peeled and cut into halves. Bake one-half hour longer. When ready to serve place all on large platter. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Large flowering marigolds, yellow, orange and red-gold; zinnias in countless colors; dahlias, more restrained and dignified; early asters in purple and rose shades, and the exuberant gladioluses, all insist with their color intensity that they are the most appealing things on the August market. They add low price to their color attraction, too, for the marigolds and zinnias cost as little as 10 cents a bunch in some flower stands.

Ten legs of spring lamb, cooked to an admirable turn, and adorned with haughty little white paper curls that only choicest meats dare to wear, were one of the most arresting sights the Meanderer found this week. All ten were going to a high place in Washington, a place where all the best legs of lamb should be glad to go.

Neighboring the legs of lamb was a cooked ham from Tennessee, destined for any place where a buyer with sufficient money and inclination could take it. Such hams, cooked by experts in Tennessee to a most appealing finish, must be bought whole, and sell for 35 cents a pound. They weigh from 8 to 12 pounds. Pineapple slices, cherries and cloves, showing on the rich crust of the cooked ham, explain some of the meat's delicious taste.

Nectarines, related to both peaches and plums, are recent arrivals in the fruit stands. They sell for 5 cents each.

Mangoes from Florida sell for 25 cents each. Casaba melons from California are priced at 35 cents up. Other seasons have known Casaba melons to bring 75 cents to $1.25 each.

A butter sponge cake, with chocolate or orange-flavored icing, is a popular choice for Saturday buyers in one downtown baker's shop. The cake sells for 40 cents a pound. The use of lady fingers in the popular ice box desserts probably is responsible for the swift summer sale of these little old-fashioned cakes, known to housewives since our grandmothers' times. Especially good lady fingers, and a constantly fresh supply of macaroons, both sell for 20 cents a dozen.

Over a dairy products counter where an impressive amount of food is sold, the Meanderer learned that cheese sells as readily in summer as in winter. "Cheese is ready to eat, it saves the housewife cooking, and is almost necessary for picnics," the dealer at this counter pointed out. Probably his most popular cheese at this time is an imported Swiss variety at 70 cents a pound. Cottage cheese in 12-ounce packages for 15 cents is also much in demand at present. Honey is sold in this busy shop, too, at all times of the year. Comb honey sells for 20 cents and strained honey at 5 pounds for 85 cents, 3 pounds for 55 cents and a 1-pound jar for 29 cents.

Inquiries about Market Meanderings may be made at The Washington Post, telephone National 4206, extension 51, or by addressing Mildred Reed Bundy. The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

VENABLE USED BATH FUNDS, SAYS AUDITOR

Banker Took County Funds to Pay His Personal Debts, State Aid Declares.

Warm Springs, Va., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Field Auditor Gordon Bennett told a Bath County jury today that former Treasurer George B. Venable had used county funds to pay personal notes.

He said Venable had admitted to him that various checks cited in the indictment formed part of the alleged shortage.

Venable, who was president of the now defunct Bank of Warm Springs, is charged with a shortage of more than $93,000 in his accounts as county treasurer.

Bennett, a representative of T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor, said that nine counts in the indictment, involving $32,615.67, represented either personal withdrawals by Venable or other debts charged by him to the county funds.

One count, the sixth, was nolle prossed by Prosecuting Attorney Albert V. Bryan.

R. M. Mustoe, who succeeded Venable as county treasurer, was called by the State to testify in regard to the tenth count of the indictment involving the largest single sum, $57,012.31.

He said that when Venable left office he turned over $11,359.75 to the incoming treasurer. The failure of the Warm Springs Bank which credited Venable with $36,663.23 on deposit brought the total to $48,022.99.

The auditors held the former treasurer accountable for $105,035.30, leaving him short at the time of his resignation $57,012.31, which amount, they said, should have been turned over to Mustoe.

W. H. Fertig, cashier of the defunct bank, testified to filling out certificates showing an erroneous bank balance to Venable's credit. He said he got his information from Venable. One certificate was $15,000 in excess of the true balance, and the other $8,000, he said.

Miss Brownie Cleek, assistant cashier, testified earlier in the day that at Mr. Venable's instructions she had prepared a false statement of his bank balance.

DRY MAN'S 'WEALTH' AIDS IN HOTEL RAID

Expensive Car and Chauffeur Used to Get Evidence in Marlboro.

An expensive car, a liveried chauffeur, and a smartly dressed prohibition agent were the undoing of George Dooli, alleged proprietor of the Marlboro, Md., Hotel, according to testimony given yesterday before a United States commissioner in Baltimore.

Agent John B. Bell said that he was driven up to the hotel at Upper Marlboro, several weeks ago by Agent L. H. Maxwell, Negro, posing as a liveried chauffeur.

Maxwell assisted Bell from the car and Bell, in turn, inquired of Dooli the way to the washroom. He was directed.

Bell then engaged Dooli in conversation, asked the way to Chesapeake Beach and then bemoaned the prospect of such a long, warm drive without a pint of whisky.

Dooli, Bell testified, responded with detailed information for reaching the resort and also with a pint of "antique" whisky, for which Bell said he paid $4.

Several days later he returned in company with several other agents and raided the hotel, confiscating a large quantity of alleged beer and whisky.

Dooli, who did not testify, was held in $1,500 bond for Federal grand jury action.

Warren W. James, jr., son of former Councilman Warren W. James, of Mount Rainier, yesterday was fined $100 in Marlboro Police Court for driving while drunk and an additional $100 for exceeding 60 miles per hour. He was also fined $5 for reckless driving and $5 for failing to keep to the right of the center of the road. James was arrested on the Marlboro pike Thursday by State Policemen J. F. Norris and J. R. Buckworth.

Carmelo Galeano, of Boulevard Heights, was fined $50 in the same court yesterday for possession of three half-gallons of whisky and fifteen bottles of beer. Galeano was arrested a few days after residents of Boulevard Heights had asked the county commissioners to have a policeman stationed in the community.

Charged with sale, possession and manufacture of liquor and maintaining a nuisance, Mrs. Mary Szymanska, of Cobb Island, Md., yesterday was arraigned before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro. The woman was held for action of the Federal grand jury on bond of $500. Dry agents said they found a half-pint of alleged whisky and 144 bottles of reputed beer in the woman's home.

Elbert McFarland, also of Cobbs Island, was held in bond of $500 for a hearing on charges of sale of one quart of liquor and possesion of a gallon.

A manslaughter warrant was issued yesterday for Thomas Carter, of 819 Delafield place northwest, alleged driver of the truck in which Oden Carr, of 1322 B street southeast, was killed near Meadows, Md., Thursday night. The warrant was sworn out by County Policeman Elon A. Turner before Judge Horace Taylor, and Carter was sent to jail to await an inquest, which will be held August 18.

Bond Sale in U. S. Denied by Moscow

Domestic Loans Offered in Countries With Official Relationship Only.

Moscow, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—An authoritative denial was issued today of reports published in New York that Soviet Russia contemplates floating a bond issue in the United States.

The Soviet government has not attempted to market any domestic loan in America or other foreign countries, it was said, nor does it intend to try to do so so long as there is no official relationship between the two countries.

It was supposed that the reports in New York arose from the fact that a recent domestic loan issued to finance the last year of the five-year plan contained a provision that the bonds might be purchased in foreign currency and would draw interest in the same currency at the regular rate of 10 per cent.

Cabinet Meeting's Work Is Praised by Chapin

(Associated Press).

Roy D. Chapin, the new Secretary of Commerce, yesterday attended his first cabinet meeting and said he found out that Mr. Hoover's official family "gets a lot done in a hurry." Mr. Chapin was asked by newspapermen concerning his impression of the meeting as compared with those of boards of directors upon which he has served as an automobile manufacturer.

"Well," he said, "I've been in business for 31 years, but I will say of this meeting that they get a lot done in a hurry."

Loan of $2,000,000 Pennsylvania Road Aim

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a $2,000,000 loan has been authorized by the Pennsylvania Railroad directors, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the road, announced today.

The money is sought to pay for construction of 1,500 all-steel box cars and would give employment to 700 for nearly six months this fall and winter in Pennsylvania Railroad shops. Railroad officials estimated it would give employment to an equal number in other industries which would furnish about 19,000 tons of steel and other equipment for the cars.

Germany Acts to Halt Growing Nudism Trend

Berlin, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Government action was taken today to put a stop to nudism, which has been creeping up all over Germany. Dr. Franz Barcht, deputy federal commissioner over the state of Prussia, announced he intended to eradicate "the shameless degradation of the honor and dignity of German women."

Nudist exhibitions in theaters and cabarets and bathing beauty competitions were forbidden, and persons who use the beaches were warned that they would have to wear enough to cover themselves.

Christian Science Churches

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Hebrews 10:38,39: "Now the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back into perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee; my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is; Because thou hast been my help, therefore in the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice." (Psalms 63:1.7.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul is the substance, Life, and intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit. Separated from man, who expresses Soul, Spirit would be a nonentity; man, divorced from Spirit, would lose his entity. But there is, there can be, no such division, for man is coexistent with God" (page 477).

THE DECISIVE FACTORS.

Public and private comment upon President Hoover's speech of acceptance is highly favorable in the main. The opinions of prominent Democratic papers are printed in another column. Their criticism is political rather than unfriendly, and many Democrats have been generous in their expressions. It is reported that both wets and drys applaud the speech in telegrams to the White House, although it is not recorded that any of these messages come from Democrats.

Although the President's references to the liquor problem evokes more comment at present than any other part of his address, the national economic situation presents a more difficult and important problem, and it is certain that as the campaign progresses the President's program for ending the depression, as compared with the program which Gov. Roosevelt is expected to elaborate, will become the chief subject of discussion. Mr. Hoover took occasion to give credit to Democrats for co-operation in making his program effective. They will hardly disclaim such credit. He also referred to some Democratic proposals which failed to become law. No doubt Democrats will insist that these proposals were superior to the Hoover program as effective means of providing employment.

Whether or not the Hoover program is the best that could be devised, it is the only one that has been adopted. The country's welfare depends upon the success of that program. Most of the plans now being applied will require more than three months in which to develop, and therefore the voters will not have conclusive information next November, but if the Hoover program as a whole seems to be bringing about better times it will be a powerful influence in the election. National psychology may not demand final proof of effectiveness of all the administration plans. It may run ahead of actual execution of the plans and create better times by the mere change from doubt to confidence.

Mr. Hoover remarked that the recovery "might be slow," which is a valuable tip to excited individuals who are tempted to speculate in the stock market. They can afford to wait before risking their money. Business must be actually better before there will be any justification for increased values in business corporations. The slight increase of business here and there is not a satisfactory basis for assuming that dividends will soon be in sight. The millions of unemployed are a drag upon the whole structure. The fundamental plans included in the Hoover program must be in operation before unemployment can be materially reduced.

In notifying Mr. Hoover of his nomination, Mr. Snell declared that Mr. Hoover's work was unfinished and that no one else could perform it. There is an appeal in this to voters who are solely interested in the recovery of the country from the depression. It may be the strongest factor in the campaign. Gov. Roosevelt must present a program of his own and then convince the country that it is superior to the Hoover program. If he should approve of the Hoover program it will be said that the maker of the plan, and not Gov. Roosevelt, is best qualified to finish the work. Three months hence much of the Hoover program will have been tested. If it is a failure, Gov. Roosevelt's proposals will have great weight; but if the Hoover program as it evolves gives promise of accomplishing desired results it may be very difficult to persuade nonpartisan voters that Mr. Hoover should be superseded.

The hardships suffered by everybody during the depression brought down bitter condemnation of the administration. This feeling may persist, and may prove a fatal handicap to Mr. Hoover. In any event, the economic state of the country on the eve of election, and the probable success or failure of the Hoover program, as viewed at that time, promise to be the decisive factors.

SHIFTING ELECTORAL VOTES.

An important element in the election this year that has been given little consideration thus far is the reapportionment of the House of Representatives. Each State's electoral votes, by which the President and Vice President are chosen, are equal to the number of its representatives in the Senate and House. Consequently, those States which increase their representation in the House this year will also be more influential in selecting the next Chief Executive.

In general this change favors the Republican party. Most States which have made phenomenal gains in population since 1910 are stanchly Republican. California, President Hoover's home State, will have nine more electoral votes to cast than it had in 1928. Michigan, a strong Republican State, will have four additional votes. New Jersey, New York and Ohio, which normally vote Republican in a national election, will each cast two more electoral ballots than they did four years ago. Washington and Connecticut make a gain of one vote each.

Texas is the exception to the general statement that the large gains in population have been confined to Republican territory. Texas will have three additional representatives in the next House. If Texas reverses its judgment of 1928 and goes back to the Democratic standard this year, its vote against President Hoover will be more potent than was its vote in favor of him four years ago. North Carolina, Oklahoma and Florida gain one vote each.

The States which lost most heavily under the reapportionment are normally Democratic. Missouri had to give up three electoral votes, Georgia and Kentucky two each, and four other Southern States have lost one vote each. Some normally Republican States, foremost of which is Iowa, have fallen behind in their growth of population. But the aggregate gains in normally Republican territory are sufficiently large to give that party reasonable assurance of 12 new seats in the House of Representatives and 12 additional votes in the Electoral College.

If the election is close, the reapportionment may be a vital factor in the final outcome. It also gives the Republicans a better chance to regain control over the House. But they will have no such advantage in retaining control of the Senate. The Democrats need to capture only two senatorial togas now held by Republicans to organize that body. It is possible that the parties may reverse their positions with regard to control over the two branches of Congress in December, 1933.

THE DUST OF STARS.

The shower of star dust through which the earth passes every August is attracting more than usual attention this year. Flaming meteors were peppered upon the earth at the rate of 20 or 30 per hour, and several of these mysterious bodies buried themselves in the soft dirt of a Missouri farm. Science will thus have an excellent opportunity to study these strange pellets and may be able to give more accurate information as to their origin.

It is supposed that these perseids are fragments of Tuttle's comet, which is believed to have exploded in 1862. Since that time the earth has been peppered with star dust each year when it passes near the orbit of the old comet during August. Science may never be able definitely to determine the cause of this annual shower, but laymen will continue to watch the lighted skies and wonder at the operation of cosmic forces.

Most of the perseids never reach the earth. They are very small in size and travel at the rate of 50 miles per second. When they strike the atmosphere about the earth they are intensely cold, but friction with the air causes them to flare into unusual brilliance. All but a few of the perseids are thus consumed before they reach the earth. Yet some of the larger ones plow through the atmosphere and bury themselves into the earth.

Scientists say that many millions, probably billions, of these meteors strike the band of atmosphere surrounding the earth each year. Yet little damage is done because most of them are consumed in the air. If the earth had no air, it would probably be pockmarked by this flying debris from interstellar space. But with a protecting band of atmosphere around the earth, the danger of damage by perseids is very slight.

The perseids that were recovered in Missouri seem to be composed of metal and rock. Apparently they are of the same materials as planets. They come as mute reminders that the universe as well as the earth is in a state of change—disintegration or integration—and that the forces which brought this planet into being are probably still in operation.

A DRY ADVISES DRYS.

There are not lacking many sincere drys who advocated the adoption of the prohibition amendment who recognize that a decisive change in sentiment has taken place with regard to liquor regulation. The change is due to a realization of the difficulties encountered in enforcement and to the evil effects of illicit traffic. President Hoover's recognition of the altered situation since his acceptance speech of four years ago renews intensive discussion of the prohibition problem, and makes it more than ever a campaign topic.

No heedful person in any walk of life can avoid observing that a significant change in the attitude of many Americans toward the use of liquor has taken place since the prohibition amendment was adopted. Just how much this change is the result of prohibition and how to a general post-war slackening of established conventions is a debatable question. An interesting discussion of the subject, in which a dry warns the drys, appears in Harper's from the pen of Stanley High. He considers the most serious development of the prohibition years to be the radically changed attitude which has made liquor drinking a habit with many people who, before prohibition, would not have tolerated its use.

This present-day condition is not limited to the United States. Travelers report the same unaccustomed prevalence of hard liquor parties in European countries and in South America where there are no restrictive laws. Whether people drink in the United States because they like liquor or because they do not like the law, Mr. High says, the fact remains that less odium attaches to the habit than ever before. Speaking as a dry who advocated the eighteenth amendment, he finds that the people who have swung from the support of prohibition over to the opposition are, first, the drys of fifteen years ago who no longer hold their previous conviction against the use of liquor, and now oppose a law which declares it illegal to do what they no longer consider wrong. The second class are convinced that prohibition is not accomplishing the purpose for which they first gave it their backing. They now join the wet camp for practically the same reasons that made them drys. Opposition to the saloon made them prohibitionists; opposition to speakeasies and crime has turned them against the law.

The case for prohibition, clearly, was built up out of the evidence against liquor. It was carefully prepared and persistently pressed educationally, but, as Mr. High finds, the advent of prohibition brought an almost complete change in dry tactics. The war against liquor itself was brought to an abrupt halt. For 75 years the drys opposed liquor with moral, social and economic arguments; for thirteen years they have been defending prohibition with political arguments. The case against liquor is as sound as it ever was, while Mr. High finds the case for prohibition increasingly debatable, and he believes that the drys could afford to make almost any political sacrifice that would enable them to get back into the fight against liquor itself.

Money is steadily coming out of hoarding. Now that the people begin to acquire something to hoard they haven's any incentive to hide it away.

If hay fever prevents Cal Coolidge from making a speech, maybe Al Smith caught it from him.

Imagine Senator Borah's torture if he should find himself approving of the Hoover speech!

AS DEMOCRATS SEE IT

"Straddling and Ineffective."
Atlanta Constitution.

The chief significance is in the President's admission that his one-time "noble experiment" of prohibition has become an ignoble failure. * * * He seeks to garner the dry vote by an attack on the Democratic position on prohibition, while at the same time appealing for the wet vote by indorsing the Democratic position. * * * Passing to the economic situation, the President gives credit for such benefits as have accrued from relief legislation to "the soul of the people"—and then unblushingly takes the glory to himself by saying, in effect, "I did it." * * * Certainly Mr. Hoover's acceptance address can not be termed, by the widest stretch of the imagination, as other than a political appeal, and as a straddling and ineffective bid for votes from both sides of each issue.

"Murky as His Platform."
Louisville Courier-Journal.

In the categorical statement of what he stands for, Mr. Hoover is plain-spoken and clear, but when he touches the issue of prohibition, he is as murky as his platform. The only thing new in his discussion of the subject is his revelation of his personal realization of the rottenness of the present prohibition abortion, but when he offers a prescription for its remedy, so far as it can be deciphered at all, it is one which there would be no way under heaven and in the English language to incorporate in the organic law of the land.

"Braver Than His Party."
Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Great today is the mourning in the strongholds of the drys. The Democratic party, with its courageous demand for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, brought prohibition to its knees. President Hoover, with a bravery greater than that of his party platform builders, supplies the coup de grace in his acceptance speech. Prohibition is as good as dead. We find in Mr. Hoover's speech two kernels. His advocacy of a change in prohibition; his implication that the bottom of the country's depths have been plumbed and that he is needed for the work of reconstruction. The country will nod over the rather presentable defense Mr. Hoover makes of his administration—a better defense than previously has been forthcoming from his supporters.

"His Own Chief Apologist."
Newark Evening News (Ind.).

The acceptance speech is too long to digest easily. Mr. Hoover should exchange one of his secretaries for an experienced newspaper copy reader. It is not a state paper, it is a campaign document. For that, even though Mr. Hoover spoke as a President, he can be excused for he is a candidate for reelection and as such he must be his own chief apologist.

It is necessary for him to claim all the virtues, all the successes and to gloss over such failures as he can not blame on the Democrats, foreign nations or acts of God. * * *

One thing stands out in Mr. Hoover's speech. That is, that he has learned much since he spoke of prohibition as "a noble experiment." * * * But he is still the Federalist. * * * He is still for liquor control by constitutional amendment instead of statute.

"Still Indefinite."
Brooklyn Eagle.

Mr. Hoover's attitude on prohibition is still indefinite. It presses down harder on both sides than does his party platform, but he is no less a straddler. His equivocation on this issue is all the more marked coming after his generally candid speech. It mars his whole story and raises doubts about it.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FOOLISH SENTIMENTALISTS.

They set us down as fools who stand
To watch the children on the sand,
Or pause upon our busy way
To hear a song bird's roundelay.

Harsh men of reason, stern and cold,
Our trivial delights behold
And tell us all earth's gladness lies
In being very shrewd and wise.

In panic times or business boom
We're captured by a rose in bloom,
Or lose a precious hour to stay
And hear what sad folks have to say

Such common things as hills and trees
Which every living mortal sees,
And sharper men go rushing past
Have power to hold us weaklings fast.

They may be right! We may be fools
To find such joy in silver pools;
But since to beauty we're inclined,
Our lack of strength we do not mind.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: You are too old to spank.

You are too old to punish.

I might enforce obedience by threat of punishment, but you would obey reluctantly with a heart full of resentment and rebellion, and the moment I got out of sight you would feel free to break every rule that offended you.

If fear is the only support of virtue, there is no virtue left when the fear is overcome.

I don't want that kind of obedience. It is lip service.

You aren't too old to obey. People never get too old. When they outgrow obedience to their parents, they begin to obey the laws of the state or the laws of God or the laws they have made for themselves.

If you obey me hereafter, it must be in obedience to your own will and your own sense of right.

In your last letter you told me how much you loved me and how much you appreciated this and that.

I hope that love is real, for it is the only rein I can use to guide you hereafter.

If it isn't real—if it is merely a fitful sense of obligation or sense of duty or appreciation of favors received and anticipated—then I have lost control of you and nothing I can say will dissuade you from a course you have chosen.

But if your love is real, it will be more effective than any fear of punishment.

Here is the test. If you love a girl friend, can you deliberately hurt and humiliate her? When you find the one man, will you do things to make his heart ache with disappointment and shame?

Well, your dad is human, too. He feels the same hurts that others feel.

When you are away from home, your conscience is your guide. Your only boss is your will. If you are tempted to do things that I wouldn't approve, the result will depend upon how real your love is.

We don't hurt those we love. Love simply doesn't function that way. It delights to serve and please.

I suppose all girls think they love their parents. Sometimes, perhaps, they fool themselves. The only way to judge a tree is by its fruit. Love,

DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Mr. Coolidge Takes Part.
Kansas City Times.

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, announces that the former President will take part in the Hoover campaign this year. Asked whether the part would be prominent, the chairman answered that Mr. Coolidge "would take part." He might have answered merely in the affirmative, for if Mr. Coolidge does take part, his participation will be "prominent." The former President retains public interest in a remarkable degree. His magazine articles and other commentaries on public questions have been followed by a vast number of readers. Naturally he has not discussed administrative policies. His life since retirement has been almost secluded, yet for both soundness of views and individuality in expression he has kept a conspicuous place in popular attention and estimation.

Blind Voting Is Bad Voting.
Detroit News.

Frequently nowadays is heard the remark, "This is a good year to vote for a change; conditions couldn't be any worse." Usually this is said with a certain flippancy, as if voting were a sort of game of chance in which the voter shared no responsibility as to outcome and probably stood to lose in any event.

But to take such a position is to confess carelessness as to the welfare of one's city, State and country and either lazy unwillingness or inability to make the preparation necessary to intelligent citizenship. It is acting upon the silly assumption that those who are in charge of the Government are a unified party acting according to a definite principle which is either right or wrong and that this party is opposed at the election by another unified party which if elected will conduct the Government by an entirely different principle from that now in operation.

Must the Farmer Pay the War Debts?
Minneapolis Journal.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his first speech of the formal campaign, proposes to obtain payment of the debts which Europe owes to the United States by lowering tariff rates.

Here in the Northwest we should like a bill of particulars. Which tariffs, pray, does the Democratic nominee propose to lower? The tariffs on butter, cream, milk, cheese, casein and other dairy products? The tariffs on meats and lard? On the imported ingredients of butter substitutes? On flaxseed? The tariff that protects our sugar beet fields?

Recalling that the last Democratic tariff revision, the Underwood law, placed virtually all farm products on the free list, the agricultural Northwest is quite warranted in demanding a list of the tariffs Gov. Roosevelt would lower. So also are other regions warranted in seeking particulars.

Cal's Hay Fever.
Baltimore Sun.

Now that President Hoover has made his speech, the country will have to judge whether or not Mr. Coolidge was justified in remaining in seclusion with his hay fever among the pollens of Vermont, or whether the character of the address was such as to make him regret that he did not bring his irritated turbenates to Washington to testify by the overt sufferings of a summer sneezer to his loyalty and devotion to his former Cabinet member.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Republican Strategy as Viewed by John F. Costello, Democratic National Committeeman, in Letter to Philadelphia Record.

The campaign strategy of the Republican leaders appears to have resolved itself into a series of objectives. So far there have been four of them. Two have failed. One was a success. The fourth is in process of prosecution.

The objectives follow:

1. Shift responsibility to the Democrats of the House of Representatives for the Nation's economic difficulties.

2. Destroy John Nance Garner politically.

3. Get the bonus-seekers out of Washington before the date of Hoover's acceptance speech.

4. Dollar wheat by November.

There are other objectives, but these are the important and typical ones that are apparent at this time.

The first was smothered in its own absurdity. For twelve undisputed years the Republicans controlled Congress and the White House, with the exception of eight months when the Democrats by a slender majority of 6 votes were in control of the House alone. It was ridiculous to suppose that the country would believe that those 6 votes could undo in a few months all the evils which had accumulated in twelve years of Republican rule.

Foolish, too, it was to think, as indicated by objective No. 2, that Jack Garner's long career of statesmanship in the House could be discredited before a country already aroused to the indirect and underground methods which in recent years have characterized and dominated Republican campaigns. Indeed, there is good basis for the assumption that this objective in its entirety called not only for the destruction of Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, but involved a whispering campaign, along the lines of the one in 1928, to impress the country into a false belief that Gov. Roosevelt is physically unfit and could survive at best only a few months of his presidential term.

Objective No. 3 succeeded. There was no embarrassment to President Hoover on account of the presence in Washington of the so-called bonus-seekers when he arose to formally accept his party's nomination for the Nation's highest office. The bonus-seekers were driven out of the Capital by order of Mr. Hoover at the point of soldiers' bayonets. Yes, this objective was a success—a pitiful success.

The same old buncombe. The same old bamboozling of the electorate.

Government Hospital Gets Its Name From the Tract of Land Known of Old as "St. Elizabeths."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The question was recently asked "why was St. Elizabeths Hospital, Washington, D. C., given this name?" The reply was, "It was named for St. Elizabeth of Hungary, who spent her life ministering to the sick and needy in hospitals and elsewhere." However, I would like to call attention to the following:

My ancestor, Thomas Addison, whose will was dated the 9th of April, 1722, mentions various properties owned by him and a portion, east of Washington (possibly 10,000 acres). He says "I give and bequeath to my son John Addison, and his heirs forever, all that tract of land called St. Elizabeths, containing about 1,430 acres," &c.

When the Government acquired this property (or part of it), it seems probable that the name mentioned in the aforementioned will was taken. The inference given in reply to the question would seem to indicate that the name St. Elizabeths was given by the Government. Will you kindly give any information you may have on the subject?

ANTHONY C. ADDISON.

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, states that the name originally given to the hospital by Congress was "Government Hospital for the Insane." During and after the Civil War many injured men were sent to the hospital, particularly those in need of artificial limbs. They were embarrassed by the implication that perhaps they were insane, and for years an effort was made to change the name of the hospital. Dr. White finally succeeded in having the name changed. In casting about for a suitable name it was found that the tract of land occupied by the hospital had been a part of the old Addison property known as "St. Elizabeths." As this was a peculiarly fitting name for the hospital it was adopted, and the word "insane" was dropped from the title.

EDITOR POST.

Vice Presidential Candidates Are Seasoned Men, All Right.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While John Nance Garner holds the splendid record of 35 years on the public pay roll, incomplete reports indicate that Charles Curtis shades him by a Christmas, or better.

Mr. Curtis, upon leaving the wigwam, took a political position and since has never been without one. Mr. Garner got into salaried public life just as early as possible, but owing to the fact that he was born some years after Mr. Curtis, for which he was in nowise to blame, Mr. Curtis got away to an unavoidable advantage.

Since then it has been an endurance contest, with Mr. Curtis maintaining his early lead. After this long and magnificent struggle it is encouraging to observe that neither is wavering. Just what the ultimate outcome will be only time, of course, can tell.

But it is here conceded that both men have done the very best they could, under the circumstances, and their staggering records for time in service should exclude from the campaign any implication that either is unseasoned.

Housing Conditions Scored at Fort Sill

Shannon, on Quiz of U. S. Competition, Promises Better Quarters.

Lawton, Okla., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Scathing criticism of housing conditions at Fort Sill was voiced today by Representative Joseph B. Shannon (Democrat), Missouri, as he concluded his investigation of business competition from the Army post exchange complained of by merchants in Lawton.

"I think the Government should be ashamed to house men in quarters like they have at Fort Sill," Shannon said. "Of all the Army posts I have visited, this is the worst."

He told the crowd which filled the courtroom where the hearing was conducted that he would recommend at the next session of Congress an immediate and extensive building program at Fort Sill.

Lieut. Col. L. J. McNair, acting commandant, testified in an affidavit the post exchange was a necessary defense against exploitation by Lawton merchants.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO"

IF August 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 9:10 p. m. to 10:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:25 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Astrological sign posts on August 13 warn you against suspicion and gossip, both of which will be ready to poison your mind and to scatter your usual discretion. An ounce of fact is worth a ton of rumor—be so guided, and your day need not be an unhappy one! Danger of illness or accidents!

Children born on this August 13 will have whining natures, if allowed to follow their natural propensities. They can be laughed out of their ultra babyish ways, however, and must not be spoiled and pampered. They must be taught to accept reasonable discipline with grace, or they will be ill prepared for the more stringent discipline of the world.

You very openly join the pessimists of the world, although a gloomy face will never be your fortune. You are lacking in faith, and possess little internal sunshine from which to draw for warmth and light, when your days are outwardly cloudy. Your own attitude invites failure where success would be expected, and probably won, by one in the opposing camp of optimism. You exaggerate your ill luck. The world slump, in your mind, has hit you harder than anyone else, and is due to your personal slumps whether it be true or not.

You do not try to dodge hard work, and are not too proud to do anything which comes your way in the day's routine. You entirely keep up your end in this respect; it is only "in spirit" that you pass the buck. You let yourself down, and others, by giving up too easily. You have no smiles when the world is no joke. You are not selfish with your things, and are a liberal sharer. You are honest and moral in every sense of the word, and you aim to do and to be right. You enjoy reading and are studiously inclined. You rather withdraw from active social life, although lively companionship is very good for one of your temperament.

Successful people born on August 13:

Felix Adler, lecturer.
Mary Duncan, film artist.
Charles Rogers, film artist.
Mrs. Lucy Stone, reformer.
Emma Eames (Story), opera singer.
Morris Jastrow, philologist.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

My favorite lounging pyjama that has been stylish for ten years. (Designed and worn by Dah-ray.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—There simply isn't any reason why the most poverty stricken budget can't include at least one lounging pyjama. There are ever and ever so many times that one would wear such an outfit, my dear! On Sundays. Or the nights at home when friends drop in. Or for the dinners that you yourself give. Oh, time and time and time again you can use a lounging pyjama.

And after all these years of wearing 'em, and all the hundreds, actually hundreds of them I have owned, I find that the one I sketched for you today, with perhaps some variation in the length of the blouse, or the length of the sleeve, or the collar, is my favorite and best. It goes on year after year, being in style, being graceful, flattering, practical, and so easy to make and to keep ironed. I have trousers of satin or crepe; preferably a good satin, and then tops of oh, anything and everything. My favorite at this moment is a coral velvet top, sleeves and neck lined in supple silver lah-may, the blouse ending low on the hips in a tunic effect, which just shows a bit of the lah-may lining, sleeves three-quarters, and a silver cord girdle. Another one that I like very much is gold and black brocaded lah-may, with crimson velvet lining.

Then there are the light-colored ones for less formal wear—a white crepe with tiny satin flowers in the design, each flower beaded with an indestructible pearl button in the center, and a double row of these pearls at neck, sleeves and hem, no lining. All with the same pyjamas, my dear, and all lovely, flattering, and not at all expensive.

Well, there is my favorite pyjama ensemble for you, the one that it has taken years of steady wearing to choose as the favorite. I do hope you will get one for yourself.

• • • •

The most easily made pyjama trousers happen to be the ones that fit and hang the very best. And the blouse is so simple to make that a child could do it. So I have made a leaflet telling you how to make the trousers and the blouse that I sketched for you today—and hope that you will send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it. Lounging pyjamas are no longer a luxury, but a need. And they don't take as much material as you think, when you know how to cut these trousers, my dear. Better just send for the leaflet of how to make my favorite pyjama trousers, and my favorite pyjama blouse, 'cause I am sure you will be able to see it all for yourself.

• • • •

Even the new French maid didn't know about bathroom steaming. It's so simple and so efficacious. One opens all the windows to get the bathroom quite cold, then one closes all the doors and windows to get it "cold-tight," then one turns on the hottest water and lets it run slowly until the room is filled with steam. Then, turning the water off and wiping off all the surplus water that clings in big drops to the walls and things so they won't drop on the clothes, one hangs anything and everything in the bathroom that needs to be pressed or wrinkled. Some materials need only this steaming, others need the steaming to act in lieu of the damp cloth you have been using between the fabric and the iron, or in lieu of sprinkling. The fact is that the steam penetrates the fabric, making it evenly damp, and making it so simple and smooth to press that it seems a miracle. Also, some materials—notably georgette, velvet and some crepes, require no further pressing—just the steaming. Even lah-mays become wrinkleless after this steaming. The only thing to remember is that it isn't good for furs or fur trimming. Also that suits and woolens shouldn't be left in the steam too long.

• • • •

A few leaflets left telling you how to make over your last year's hats. You can send for them when you send for the new one on making my favorite pyjama trousers and my favorite pyjama blouse.

Au revoir.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PIMPLES AND PORK.

WHILE diet is not the most important factor in acne, or infected pimples, it is of some consequence. A British skin specialist gives it as his opinion that one-fourth of all the bad cases of acne that have come under his care resulted from eating hog fat. By hog fat he referred to bacon, pork, middling, pork chops and other forms of fat hog meat. If he charges any of the trouble to eating the quantity of lard used in making bread and pastries and in cooking other dishes, he did not say so.

In his judgment some become slightly sensitized to hog meat. The nose lights up, the face becomes red, and the pimples fill with pus and appear red and angry whenever the breakfast has consisted of bacon or fat meat and greens that have been cooked with hog fat in the evening. When a case of acne is of this periodic flare-up type the possibility that something eaten, and, particularly, that pork is the cause, should be investigated.

The authority bases his understanding on a theory that has considerable basis, whether it is right or not, in this connection. Fats vary considerably in their solidity. Some, such as olive oil, are fluid at ordinary temperatures. Others, such as tallow, are solid and firm at these temperatures. There are many variations in the solidity of fats. Cottonseed oil is changed by treatment from a fluid oil to one that has about the solidity of other cooking fats.

The grease in the grease glands of the skin normally is near enough to being liquid to ooze readily at ordinary temperatures. On a hot day, or while in a Turkish bath, the grease becomes more liquid and pours out on the surface. In a blackhead the grease is so solid that it does not readily flow out of the grease glands. If we ever find a diet or a drug that will increase the liquidness of the oils in the glands of the skin, and thus cause these glands to discharge readily, we will have a remedy for pimples. The theory of the British skin specialist is that when we eat fat hog meat the excess grease is excreted by the skin glands. This fat is more solid and less liquid than that which these glands normally secrete. Therefore, it accumulates in the glands, causing blackheads. These overfilled glands become infected, causing pimples and boils.

Those who are subject to acne that is made worse by eating pork will do well to change the diet.

MAY BE AN OBSTRUCTION.

T. Y. writes:

1. Our daughter, 3 years and 9 months, has a very difficult time breathing while sleeping. She awakes two or three times nightly trying to breathe through her nose. She sleeps with her mouth tightly closed, so it could not be adenoids. What would you advise?

2. Our 18-month-old son has a coating on his front teeth. What is causing this and what is the cure?

REPLY:

1. Have her nose and throat examined thoroughly. There must be some obstruction there.

2. Try to clean these teeth by rubbing them with toilet paper or a soft cloth. If you fail, have a dentist try. I do not know the cause.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Have You Asked These Questions?

MISS M. J. writes: I am a constant reader of your column, and find it very helpful. Can you publish these questions and answer them:

(1) Is it possible for one to catch pimples from using another's puff?

(2) How much should I weigh? I am 5 feet 6 inches tall; 18 years old.

(3) Will lemon juice remove freckles?

(4) What will make eyelashes longer?

(5) What suitable color can a person be married in, in midsummer, and should gloves, hat and shoes match?

• • • •

(1) Yes; eruptions may be passed from one to another on a soiled puff. It is extremely unsanitary, to say the least, to use another person's puff. If you haven't your own handy at any time, use a bit of absorbent cotton.

(2) You should weigh about 130 pounds.

(3) Lemon juice may dim the freckles, but will not remove them. Anything strong enough to completely remove freckles may be injurious to the skin. My bulletin on freckles has many homemade bleaching recipes. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

(4) White vaseline, castor oil or a 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury salve brushed carefully from root to tip under the lashes, with a tiny eyelash brush. Try to avoid getting into the eyes.

(5) White or any becoming pastel shades would be suitable for bridal costume, and matching accessories or harmonizing colors may be worn. Good luck!

Dear Miss Pierce: I am 21 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weigh 125, and all muscle from shoulder down; but my face is slim, showing my cheek bones and some of my jaw bone. How can I gain weight, especially to fill my face?

• • • •

You are a few pounds underweight. Try to gain generally and your face will fill out. Apply rouge high and well out on the cheeks to give your face a fuller appearance, also dress your hair to add width. My bulletin giving coiffure hints will be sent to you on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope.

• • • •

Dear Miss Pierce: Is there something I could do to prevent "flaring nostrils" (red nose)?

• • • •

Wash with an antiseptic or disinfectant on a piece of absorbent cotton a few times a day. At night before retiring use a little zinc oxide ointment. Avoid too hot or too cold water or ice. Before powder, pat with a good finishing lotion or liquid powder and smooth powder over very gently.

Culbertson on Bridge

AN UNCONVENTIONAL OPENING.

OPENING leads are about the most difficult plays in the game of Contract Bridge. Certain conventions govern the choice of a lead, but there are frequently occasions when none of these conventions apply, and the player is forced to diagnose the situation for himself. At certain of these times he may choose to do something unusual, and, if the unusual thing is backed by a certain amount of logical reasoning, he may often find himself rewarded beyond his expectations.

The hand below was played recently in a New York bridge club, and South, who had been complaining about his cards all evening, made a play of this kind, which he claimed almost compensated him for his losses of the evening.

East—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 4 3 2 ♡ K Q J 5 ◇ Q 3 ♣ 10 9 8 6
♠ Q 10 5 ♡ A 9 3 ◇ K 10 4 ♣ A 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ A K J 9 8 ♡ 10 4 ◇ J 8 6 ♣ K Q 4
	♠ 7 6 ♡ 8 7 6 2 ◇ A 9 7 5 2 ♣ J 3

The Bidding

East	South	West	North
1♠	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was conventional—there is no need to discuss it. South felt that the opponents were almost certain to make their contract unless he could produce some unusual play. The heart and club suits seemed to contain no possibilities; the diamond suit at least included an Ace. With very little idea of what might happen, he finally decided on a lead of a fifth best diamond, feeling that if his partner was puzzled, at least Declarer would be also. The results were surprising, but very gratifying. Declarer played low from the Dummy, North took the trick with the Queen, returned the 3, and South was able to cash his Ace and lead the third round for his partner to ruff. North then laid down the heart King, which was taken in Dummy with the Ace.

East at this point was quite disgusted and did not fail to show it. He belonged to the school which thinks that every play must be made according to rule and that at no time should deviations be allowed. Still grumbling to himself, he took out the outstanding spades and then tried to break the club suit for his heart discard. This failing, he angrily conceded a trick and proceeded to berate South for his unconventional opening. South was too pleased to take the harangue seriously, but North, feeling that his partner was, perhaps, being criticized too loudly, turned to East and asked him why he had not made the contract anyway. It required only a few minutes' explanation for East to see how he could have done this and he was then obliged to subside. The proper play was very simple. North's heart King lead had established a perfect squeeze position for Declarer and all that was necessary was to lead out all five trumps, retaining his four clubs in Dummy. North could have discarded safely on four of them, but on the last trump he would have been obliged either to throw one of his long clubs or discard the heart Queen and establish the 10 in Declarer's hand.

Today's Pointer.

While general principles governing the choice of an opening lead may be laid down, only wooden players follow them blindly. Often the only method of defeating a contract is to deviate materially from accepted standards of play.

ECHOES OF A MARKET RISE.
(By Our Special Vacation Resort Correspondent.)

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y.—Col. B. Lukeworst Borsch, who leaped off his yacht as it came into port after a month's cruise, leaped back again when a passenger in a passing launch tossed him a newspaper open to the stock page. The colonel had about given up hope.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Osterhaus Flotsam, who have been occupying the servants' cottage for the duration of the slump, suddenly moved into the big house today. They are still a bit undecided whether to sell at present levels and regard the occupancy as permanent or hold a while and run the chance of going back to the cottage.

Judge Wallabout Bunk, who had been missing for two weeks, was found at the bottom of a well on one of the many abandoned estates hereabout today. He refused to be rescued. "I missed the market," he said simply. "Now I want to be where I can't hear my friends tell about their profits."

Newport, R. I.—Eleven of America's most famous show places were reopened suddenly today by owners who had almost forgotten where they were located. They had bought Telephone at 70.

T. Galloway Sposs, whose mansion here is one of the most imposing places in America, ordered the grass cut on his 150 acres this morning, following the rise in Consolidated Gas common.

Newport center was thrown into a high pitch of optimism last week when a millionaire was seen walking around smiling. Nothing of that sort had been reported here since the fall of 1929.

Lucre Vista, the palatial shore residence of H. Whittlesby Potts, shed its shutters and removed the cobwebs from the Italian Renaissance iron gateway today. Mr. Potts, after having the recent stock movements verified by a trusted friend, phoned the caretaker to open up the place for the balance of the season and hope for the best.

• • • •

Bar Harbor, Me.—Following the sensational spurt in stocks, sixteen big yachts came into port today and discharged the sheriff's Keepers. The owners appeared carefree once more and a number of them even broke into song.

Seth Holbrook, proprietor of a ship gasoline station, fainted today. It seems that a million-dollar yacht came to the pier and its skipper ordered the tanks refilled. This is the first time in two summers that any yacht owner has taken on more than 20 gallons at a time.

Coney Island, N. Y.—Gus Q. Smith, who described himself as just an average family man, caused a sensation here today by taking his wife and six kids for a ride on the roller coaster and then remaining for a second trip. "No, I didn't have any stocks," he explained, "but the rise makes me feel more cheerful."

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

STATION WMAL has agreed to continue to relay programs of the Columbia Broadcasting System until the new Columbia outlet in nearby Virginia is completed, according to Milton R. Baker, manager of Station WMAL, in the first statement which he has made concerning the severance of WMAL from the network. Under present plans WMAL will begin operation as an independent station on November 1.

"The decision to function as a purely Washington station was made following an extensive survey of broadcasting needs here," Mr. Baker declared. "WMAL officials believe there is ample material for a full time schedule of Washington programs as well as a place for a major local station in the Nation's Capital.

"Tentative schedules under the new system of operation are already being drawn up. WMAL will continue to broadcast most of its current remote control programs from local hotels and night-clubs. Many orchestras and entertainment features, without regular radio schedules in the past because of lack of available time, will be included.

"Elaborate arrangements are being made to continue the present policy of broadcasting special events of both local and national interest. WMAL expects to draw on an already extensive file of local talent developed through a series of auditions in the past three years. The studios and production staffs will be augmented to meet requirements of a full time independent station."

TO eliminate numerous microphones, a new departure was successfully made by the N. B. C. during President Hoover's notification ceremonies. A single microphone was placed in front of the President through which his voice was fed to the broadcasting networks and to several newsreel organizations. This was done by the use of a multiple unit repeating amplifier. In the past several years there has been much complaint because as many as a dozen microphones have been placed in front of the President whenever he spoke. The new amplifying unit makes the great number unnecessary. However an extra one was placed on the speaker's stand to be used in case of emergency.

Albert Coates, Anglo-Russian conductor will feature the Symphony No. 1, in C Minor, by Brahms, during the Lewisohn Stadium Concert (WMAL, 7:30 to 9 o'clock), tonight Other selections to be played under his baton by the orchestra of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society will include Dvorak's "Carneval" overture, the powerful tone poem, "Death and Transfiguration," by Strauss, and Glinka's "Kamarinskaia."

A SPECIAL program to be broadcast from Los Angeles, the scene of the Olympic games, during which several of the most sensational athletes, as well as several of the officials, are expected to speak, is planned for the Lucky Strike Dance Hour (WRC, 9 o'clock) tonight. Jimmy Grier's Orchestra will be featured.

Ruth Etting's version of "My Man" and a saxophone solo by Jimmy Dorsay, member of Nat Shilkret's orchestra, will be highlights of the Music That Satisfies program (WMAL, 9 o'clock) tonight.

THE other day Frederic William Wile, political analyst of the air, crossed New York in a cab while en route to Albany to see Gov. Roosevelt. He noticed the driver's name was Gordon Godowsky, and when they had to stop for traffic lights, inquired if the chauffeur were related to the celebrated pianist, Leopold Godowsky. The driver said that he was the musician's son. It so happened that the musician and Wile had been friends in Berlin before the war, and when the broadcaster revealed his identity the young driver recalled having heard his father speak many times of Wile.

Austin Lone Briton in Rye Play

Enters Semifinals of Net Event as Mates Falter.

Sutter, Lewis, Mangin Others Still in Running.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, alone of the original British team of four, remained in the running for the Eastern grass courts tennis championship after the quarter-finals had been played today.

Austin, first-ranking English player, defeated Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., 6—4, 6—4, but his compatriot, John S. Olliff, bowed to Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, 6—3, 2—6, 6—2. Fred Perry and Edward R. Avory, the other Britons, were eliminated yesterday.

Mangin-Lewis Also Advance.

Gaining the semifinals along with Austin and Sutter were Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, and Elbert H. Lewis, of Los Angeles. Mangin defeated Manuel Alonso, of New York, 6—1, 6—2, while Lewis scored an upset triumph over Wilbur F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City, conqueror of Perry yesterday. Lewis won by scores of 6—4, 6—4.

Tomorrow Sutter will meet Austin while Lewis plays Mangin.

The men's doubles reached the semifinal round with the surviving teams including Perry and Austin; Sidney B. Wood, New York, and Lester Stoffen, Los Angeles; Robert (Lefty) Bryan, Chattanooga, and John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, and Henry Culley, Los Angeles.

Gledhill and Culley accounted for the biggest form reversal when they whipped Mangin and Berkeley Bell, New York, one of the favored combinations, 7—5, 6—4.

Dorothy Andrus Burke, of Stamford, Conn., and Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, won the women's doubles title, defeating the all-British team of Joan Ridley and Mrs. J. B. Pittman, 9—7, 9—7.

Miss Ridley and Mrs. Pittman are to play for the women's singles championship tomorrow.

District Players Fail At W. Maryland Nets

Mountain Lake Park, Md., Aug. 12. Washington players suffered three losses in the western Maryland tournament today. Frances Grimes, Morgantown defending champion, defeated Frances Walker in the semifinals, 6—2, 6—1. In the other semifinal, Margaret Carspecken defeated Miriam Sullivan, 6—4, 6—2. Frances Walker and Helen Philpitt lost in the finals of doubles, 6—3, 6—1, to Margaret Carspecken and Miriam Sullivan.

Barney Welsh returned to Washington after the singles yesterday, thus causing a default of the team of Welsh-Shields in the semifinals to Billy O'Loughlin and Paul Sullivan, who meet Alcorn and Broida in the finals Saturday.

Tribe Beats Tigers; Ties A's for Second

Cleveland, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Sterling pitching by Clint Brown enabled the Indians to hand Detroit its second straight defeat of the series, 2 to 1, and regain a tie for second place.

Brown held the Tigers to six hits and kept them scoreless until the eighth.

Landis' Betting Probe Of Chicago Cubs Fades

Chicago, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—After a talk with Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today, baseball writers to a man were convinced that nothing would result from his reported investigation of charges that the Chicago Cubs were "playing the horses" too freely.

The commissioner deftly side stepped all questions with apparent glee while over in the Cub front office everything was peaceful and calm except for an expression of indignation by President William L. Veeck that such charges should be hurled at his players when they were in the midst of a great drive for the National League pennant.

Japan Leads In Olympic Swimming

Backstroke Triumph Ousts United States From First Place.

Dorothy Poynton, 16, Wins for America in High Dive.

creased his advantage until he was a yard ahead at the turn and two yards in front before the closely bunched field closed upon him slightly at the finish. His time of 1 minute 8.6 seconds was four-tenths of a second short of the worlds record, and Olympic record set in 1928 by George Kojac, of the United States. Second was Toshio Irie, with Kentaro Kawatsu third. Robert Zehr was the first Yankee finisher, coming in fourth in 1 minute 10.9 seconds.

The sweep for the Japanese gave them a point total of 56, with three events to go, as against 46 for the United States. Triumphs in the relay and diving gave the United States women a total of 30 points for first place in the team standings, with Australia second, with 17, Great Britain third with 15, and Holland fourth with 10.

Knsoa Kitamura, the much talked of school boy free style exponent, won the first semifinal of the 1,500 meter race in 19:51.6, cutting two-tenths of a second off the Olympic record set in 1928 by Arne Borg, of Sweden, in 1928.

Shozo Makino went Kitamura one better, cutting his team-mates new record down to 19:38.7, by winning the second heat by almost 30 meters.

The two Nipponese won with such ease that there was left little hope that Clarence Crabbe, the United States' best prospect, or Jean Taris, Flashy Frenchman, could do anything about the first place or so in tomorrow's final test.

400-METER FREE STYLE, WOMEN'S SEMIFINAL (three to qualify)—Won by Helene Madison United States; second, Jennie Maakal, South Africa; third, Norene Forbes, United States. Time, 5:48.7. (Marie Overeloot and Marie Philipsen-Braun, both of Holland, scratched.)

First heat—Won by Re Io Koike, Japan; second, Yoshiyuki Tauruta, Japan; third, Jikirum Adjaluddin, Philippine Islands; fourth, Ulyase Cartonda, France; fifth, Toivo Reingoldt, Finland. Time, 2:44.9. (New Olympic record. Old record 2.46.2 yesterday by Tsuruta and tied by Koike.)

Second heat—Won by Erwin Sietas, Germany; second, Teofilo Yldefonzo, Philippine Islands; third, Shigero Nakagawa, Japan; fourth, Walter Spence, Canada. Time, 2:47.6.

It was an abbreviated battle to permit the Canadian players to catch a boat home. The second half was cut to fifteen minutes after Olympic victory ceremonies had consumed more than half an hour.

TIGERS GAIN REPLAY BY PROTEST

Harridge's Ruling on Batting Order Costs Yanks Victory.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—President Will Harridge, of the American League, today upheld a protest by the Detroit Tigers over the game against the New York Yankees August 1 and ordered the game replayed because of the violation of the batting order rule.

The mix-up in the New York batting order involved Ben Chapman and Tony Lazzeri. In the original line-up presented to Umpire R. P. Nallin, arbiter in charge of the game, by Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, Chapman was slated to bat fifth, with Lazzeri in sixth position. But in the second inning Lazzeri batted fifth, singled and went to second on a wide throw.

Bucky Harris discovered the error and protested to Nallin. McCarthy then appealed to Nallin to permit the change, claiming the original batting order was an error. Nallin allowed McCarthy's request, the Yankees finally winning the game, 6 to 3.

Nallin Overstepped Authority.

Harridge said that while Nallin was in charge of the game that he had no right to approve the change in the New York batting order contrary to playing rule 35, which provides that the batting order delivered to the umpire must be followed throughout the game unless substitutions occur, when, even then, the substitute must take his predecessor's position in the batting order.

The game was ordered replayed on the next trip of the Yankees to Detroit in September.

2 U. S. BOXERS IN OLYMPIC FINALS

3 Lose Decisions in Semifinal Matches at Los Angeles.

OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Only two of the five surviving American boxers in the semifinals of the Olympic tournament reached the final round in the bouts this afternoon and tonight as three fell by the wayside.

Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, good-looking dental student of Loyola University, kept the United States' colors raised in the welterweight division when he boxed his way to a close decision over David McCleave, of Great Britain.

It was a brisk battle with Flynn pressed to the limit by an opponent he had been favored to beat rather easily. The American piled up points in the first and second rounds, scoring regularly with his snappy left hook and alternating the attack with rights to the body.

American hopes received a setback in the bantamweight class when Joe Lang, of San Francisco, lost the decision to Hans Ziglarski, wild swinging German youth, in a semifinal contest.

Both judges and the referee voted for Ziglarski, but many of the several hundred fans and a number of critics disagreed with the verdict. A loud chorus of boos was heard when the German was declared the winner.

A storm of protest from 7,000 fans greeted the decision by which Louis Salica, of Brooklyn, America's hope for the flyweight title, was defeated tonight by Stephen Enekes, of Hungary, champion of Europe.

What Salica failed to do in the flyweight division, Carmen Barth, of Cleveland, Ohio, accomplished in the middleweight class. He carried America's standard into the finals with an impressive decision over a formidable opponent, Earnest Peirce, of South Africa.

America's chances for a team title received a serious setback tonight when big Fred Feary, of Stockton, was defeated in the semifinals by Luigi Rovati, of Italy.

Umpire's Decision in Nicaragua Is Taken Before Supreme Court

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—An umpire's decision on a close play in a baseball game has given the Nicaraguan supreme court a unique case in which the "Official Guide" will be as important as the statute books.

Two weeks ago the Managua Boers and a team from Granada were playing off a tie for second place in the Nicaraguan National League, the winner to play San Fernando for the championship. The game brought out 5,000 customers.

In the last half of the ninth the score was 4 to 0, in favor of Managua, and Granada was at bat. There was none out and two men were on base.

The Granada batter hit a slow roller down the first base line. It hit fair, rolled foul and then bounced back in. The Managua pitcher fielded the ball, but threw high to first. The men on second and third scored and the batter went to third.

Then the umpire said the hit was foul.

The crowd swarmed out on the field as the Granada players surrounded the umpire. That official pulled out his watch and gave the Granada team time to clear the field. When the time limit had expired he forfeited the game to Managua.

Today the president of the Granada club filed an appeal with the supreme court, claiming Granada's share of the gate receipts, which, under a ruling of the Nicaraguan sport commission, can not be divided with any club which is punished for infraction of the rules.

Sculling Title Retained by Australia

Pearce Beats Miller, of Penn, to Repeat 1928 Victory.

California U. Crew Is Favored in 8-Oared Finals Today.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

MARINE STADIUM, Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Demonstrating his complete mastery over the world's foremost amateur scullers, despite an unexpectedly strong challenge from his American rival, Henry Robert Pearce, of Australia, today captured the Olympic single sculls championship for the second straight time.

Pearce thereby became the first oarsman in Olympic history to repeat in the solo event.

The powerful, rangy Australian, devouring the water of the Olympic lagoon with his long, sweeping strokes, stood off the closing challenge of Bill Miller, of Philadelphia, United States champion, to win the day's feature race by a good three-quarters of a length, in the slow time of 7:44 2-5.

Douglas, of Uruguay, Third.

Guillermo Douglas, of Uruguay, and Leslie (Dick) Southwood, of Great Britain, finished third and fourth, outdistanced.

Four of the seven Olympic championships were decided during the afternoon and the United States jumped into the lead for team honors by scoring its first victory in Olympic history in the final for pair-oared boats, with coxswain.

In the last event of the day two powerful young Philadelphia boys from the Penn A. C., Charley Kieffer and Joe Schauers, with the veteran Ed Jennings steering, scored a decisive victory over Poland, with France, third and Brazil last. These were the only four entries in this event and they went into the title ace today without any preliminary test.

Great Britain, Germany Next in Order.

Great Britain and Germany divided the day's other honors. The veteran British pair-oared combination, Clive and Edwards, without coxswain, beat New Zealand, Poland and Holland handily after Germany's four-oared boat with coxswain came from behind with a sensational closing spurt to nip Poland by a foot in the most exciting race of the afternoon.

With four titles decided, the American oarsmen led with 15 points, scored unofficially on a 10-5-4-3 basis for the finalists in each race. Poland and Great Britain were tied for second with 13 each, while Australia had 10, thanks to Pearce's victory; Germany the same, and New Zealand, 8.

The regatta will be completed tomorrow with the University of California's undefeated crew, representing the United States, battling Canada and Great Britain in the feature event for eight-oared boat loads.

The Americans are one of three college crews in the big race. Italy's blue-shirts are from Pisa University and champions of their country. The British entry is the same that rowed victoriously for Cambridge University against Oxford last spring. Canada's colorbearers are from the Leander Club, of Hamilton.

FOUR-OARED, WITH COXSWAIN—Won by Germany (Spremberg, Meyer, Hoeck, and Eller, stroke; Neumann, coxswain), 7:19; second, Italy (Parovel, Divora, Plaxzer, and Vattovaz, stroke; Scher, coxswain), 7:19 1-5; third, Poland (Kobalinski, Urban, Slazak, and Braun, stroke; Skolimowski, coxswain), 7:26 4-5; fourth, New Zealand (Solomon, Saunders, Cox, and Pope, stroke; Gullery, coxswain), 7:32 3-5.

PAIR OARED, WITHOUT COXSWAIN—Won by Great Britain (Edwards, bow, and Clive, stroke), 8 minutes flat; second, New Zealand (Thompson and Stiles), 8:02 4-5; third, Poland (Mikolajczak and Budzinski), 8:08 1-5; fourth, Holland (Roelofsen and Roell), 8:08 2-5.

SINGLE SCULLS—Won by Henry R. Pearce, Australia, 7:44 2-5; second, William G. Miller, United States, 7:45 1-5; third, Guillermo Douglas, Uruguay, 8:13 3-5; fourth, Leslie F. Southwood, Great Britain, 8:33.

PAIRED-OARED, WITH COXSWAIN—Won by United States (Kiefer, bow, and Schauers, stroke; Jennings, coxswain), 8:25 4-5; second, Poland (Slazak and Braun; Skolimiaski, coxswain), 8:31 1-5; third, France (Giriat and Brusa; Brunet, coxswain), 8:41 1-5; fourth, Brazil (Strata and Ramalho; Cricio, coxswain), 8:53 1-5.

DOUBLE PLAY RECORD TIED IN VAIN

Giants Make 6 Twin Killings, But Bow to Dodgers, 1-0.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—William Watson Clark, Joe Stripp and the rest of the Brooklyn Dodgers overcame a record-equaling fielding performance by the Giants today to take the first game of the Interborough series, 1 to 0, and to capture third place in the National League from the defeated Boston Braves.

The Dodgers rapped Fred Fitzsimmons and Sam Gibson for 12 hits, but could score only once, as the Giants completed six double plays to equal the major league record. Clark, however, kept the slim lead safe once he got it, yielding only four hits.

The double-play record was held jointly by the Giants, the Cincinnati Reds, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the old Philadelphia Club of the American Association.

6 Speedboats Seek Historic Gold Cup

Montauk Beach, Long Island, N. Y., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Six of the Nation's fastest speedboats will battle over a two and a half mile course here tomorrow in the twenty-ninth running of the gold cup race. Racing under the colors of the Montauk Yacht Club in the role of defending champion will be John Wanamaker's Louisa, with Victor Kleisrath as pilot. Louisa substitutes for Wanamaker's Hotsy-Totsy, winner of the cup in 1930 and 1931, but now retired from competition.

Louisa's five challengers include George Reis' El Lagarto from Lake George, N. Y.; Miss Columbia, owned by the Red Bank, N. J., Yacht Club; John Shibe's Arctic Tern, and Horace Dodge's Delphine IV and Delphine V.

The race consists of three heats of 30 miles each.

Police Asked To Protect Dickey

Harridge Fears New Flare-Up of Feud Between Clubs.

Reynolds on Bench; Burke Placed on Retired List.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH the presence of League President Will Harridge and Umpire-in-Chief Tommy Connolly calculated to temper the ill feeling between the clubs, the Nats and the Yankees bring big league baseball back to Griffith Stadium today after an absence of three weeks.

Mr. Harridge announced that in view of the fisticuffs on the occasion of the last meeting between the Yanks and the Nats, on July 4, when One-Punch Bill Dickey aimed well but not wisely and fractured the jaw of Carl Reynolds, drawing thereby a 30-day suspension and $1,000 fine, cognizance of the feud was being taken officially.

The American League head will be on the scene as an eyewitness to any further fireworks and has passed the word along that he will slap fines and suspensions on any players provoking trouble.

Special Police Detail Is Arranged.

While it is unlikely that any murders will be committed, Mr. Harridge has requested Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, to provide adequate police protection for Dickey. Special police details have been assigned. Dickey will appear in the Yankee lineup, Manager McCarthy has announced, but Reynolds will be on the sidelines for nearly another week. He is still confined to a liquid diet although the wires that bound the jaw have been removed.

Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas is scheduled to do the flinging for the Nationals, who have won nine of the seventeen games played so far between the two clubs, while Manager Joe McCarthy is expected to call on either Charley Ruffing or George Pipgras, with Vernon (Lefty) Gomez likely to be held over for tomorrow's clash.

Bobby Burke Placed On Retired List.

Pitcher Bobby Burke, who reported himself ill when sent by the Nats to the Chattanooga Lookouts and who returned here yesterday, has asked that his name be placed on the "voluntarily retired" list. He is feeling far from right, he declares, and believes that a rest will help him. He has not yet decided whether he will do his resting here or journey to the quiet of his home town of Joliet, Ill.

As the Indian said as he was deftly removing a scalp, "What's joy to one is sorrow to another." The Nats had decided to option Catcher Howard Maple to the Baltimore Orioles, but when Roy Spencer yesterday returned from the Western trip complaining that the leg which has bothered him practically all season is far from right and that besides he still feels the effects of a recent malaria attack a change of plans was made and the rookie receiver will remain with the Washington Club.

MISS CORINNE JUST LASTS TO WIN HAWTHORNE FEATURE

Moran's Ride Nets Victory By Neck

Challenge by Rehobeth Fails to Nip Outsider.

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Willie Moran gave the Meadowbrook Farm's Miss Corinne a brisk ride in the stretch today to take down the Crestview Purse by a neck over Dr. J. Fred Adams' Rehoboth in the top race at Hawthorne.

Moran started his drive early enough to get the jump and Miss Corinne just about had enough left to withstand Rehoboth's challenge. Waylayer saved the place money. Miss Corinne was an outsider in the wagering and paid $13.60 to win. The favorite, Mrs. John D. Hertz's Watch Him, finished far back. Miss Corinne raced the 6 furlongs in 1:13 2-5.

Garibaldi, O'Shocker To Wrestle Thursday

Tough Gino Garibaldi, who was awarded a decision over Jim McMillan Thursday night, when McMillan inflicted several indignities upon his sensitive features, meets durable Pat O'Shocker at Griffith Stadium next Thursday night in the feature bout on Promoter Joe Turne.'s rassling card.

Another rough lad, George Zaharias, will appear in the second feature, meeting Floyd Marshall.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Asbestos is plunging today, so he must feel confident. Watch for new code tomorrow. Today's code is: Hawthorne, 20, 7, 1, 19, 17, 7, 11, 2 and 11, 8, 4, 26, 3, 1, 24, 2, 6. Yesterday the 'roll lost $2.50 and is $42.91.

TODAY'S BET:
$6 to Win, Caterwaul, at Saratoga.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 14.

Tomorrow we have a stake race for a change—the Illinois Handicap, with $10,000 added. It attracts just a fair field, with CHARLEIGH the favorite and probable winner. Should the going become heavy, MY DANDY will be hard to beat. There is nothing to get excited about in the remaining events.

At Saratoga, they will have to go some to catch that good 2-year-old Ladysman, which will be ridden by Bobby Jones.

Take it easy, Al, the weather we are having out here is tough on horses as well as players. Wait for the break. Yours, BILL.

FIRST RACE—HOPULIKIT may be able to last the 6-furlong route. CHAT EAGLE is the contender. SINGING HEART has a outside chance.

SECOND RACE—WELL SHOD and Jockey Steffen should grab this heat. FAIR IMAGE and LERACK to follow.

THIRD RACE—VISHNU may surprise here and at a good price. BROAD MEADOWS for place and FLAGBEARER may peep.

FOURTH RACE—This is a hard one with MISGUIDE, NITUMA and HOPE TO DO in the order named. ESSELL and GLORITONE, both recent winners, could easily spill the beans.

FIFTH RACE—SUNDOT is always knocking at the door. I like him, with BROWN WISDOM and MORSEL close up.

SIXTH RACE—CHARLEIGH'S recent form makes him the winner. FAIRBYPAIR and MY DANDY will fight it out with the consistent Evergold.

SEVENTH RACE—Half the horses in this mile and a half affair will be ready to call it a day at the end of the mile. GALAHAD loves a route. I fancy LA FERIA and SPUD for place and show.

EIGHTH RACE—CLASBY'S CHOICE, BAY LEAF and PRINCESS A. A. should fight it out in the closing event. It is cloudy here tonight and should it become muddy, BAY LEAF, with a feather up, should win.

Stocks Tumble After Loss Of Battle to Profit-Takers

Expected Reaction Slices Gains 2 to 7 Points in Reduced Sales.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Stocks tumbled today with a vigor that had been unequaled on the movement in the opposite direction.

Net losses of 2 to 7 points in the so-called pivotal issues and of 12 or more in one or two others resulted from a heavy fire of selling in the last hour.

Earlier, the market had bobbed about uncertainly, occasionally rallying, but never showing much enthusiasm for higher prices. The late break found trading very active; final prices were the lows, notwithstanding an attempt at a recovery just before the close. Sales totaled 3,719,000 shares.

Wall street's readiest explanation for this sudden descent was that a technical reaction had been overdue; also that wheat and cotton had had much to do with the sudden form reversal, since both those commodities were weak. Stocks losing most ground were those which had been going up most rapidly, notably farm implements and speculative favorites in other groups.

Thus J. I. Case forfeited 13¼ points net, while Auburn's quotations was pared 12. American Telephone flopped 7; U. S. Steel and New York Central, 4¼; American Can, 6; Allied Chemical, Eastman and Santa Fe, 5; International Harvester, 4½; Du Pont, 5½; Union Pacific, 4, and many others 2 to 4. Some preferred stocks wavered, especially U. S. Steel's senior issue, which sank 5. Losses averaged into a decline of 4.9 points, the severest break since last September.

Undoubtedly the technical position had weakened on the long advance, and when pressure was applied by profit takers, and short sellers there was a rather woeful lack of buying orders.

President Hoover's speech of acceptance, in addition to outlining what had been done on behalf of financial stabilization, also contained several statements of especial interest in market quarters, particularly the divisions on war debts, utilities and prohibition, all of which are live questions of the moment. In some quarters it was noted that the President had said the country would recover from its economic troubles rather than that recovery had actually started. The pick-up, he felt, "may be slow."

Weekly mercantile reviews said optimism continued ascendant, although retail distribution was still under the influence of summer curtailment. Some wholesale lines have quickened.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thurs.
Number of advances....	158	376
Number of declines....	488	297
Stocks unchanged	118	141
Total issues traded...	764	814

Stocks.

Prices tumbled two to seven points in a 3,719,000-share sale. Stocks that led the bull market also headed the reaction.

Bonds.

Steady upward trend maintained, although the average gain was smaller. The trading volume declined to $16,509,000.

Curb.

The advance was halted in a storm of profit-taking. Sales dropped to 490,000 shares. Heavy gainers in the outset of the July-August rise suffered most.

Wheat.

A slump of almost three cents per bushel on wheat followed losses in other markets. Heavy selling attended the break. Corn and oats also sold down.

Cotton.

Reaction on Southern selling and some realizing sent prices 30 to 33 points lower. Liverpool hedged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Overnight Wall street reaction had little effect on the stock exchange, the general tone remaining very firm, especially for British funds. Business was on a smaller scale. The features of the session were the strength in Argentine rails and Peruvians stocks. The closing was firm.

Paris—Trading on the bourse was quiet and the undertone was steady. French rentes continued their upward trend and bank shares were stronger on bear covering. Oil shares and international issues were steady and the market closed good. The bourse will remain closed until Tuesday, Assumption holidays.

Berlin—Trading was hesitant on the boerse but prices firmed later and closed higher.

BOND RISE PERSISTS IN LIGHTER TRADING

Sagging of Other Markets Disregarded as Loans Hold Popularity.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Railroad bonds showed strength in spite of the sharp break in stocks today, with the result that the general list was enabled to close the session with a small gain.

Trading dropped off sharply from yesterday's unusually large volume, but sales still totaled $15,509,000, par value, which is more than the ordinary day's aggregate. The average for 60 corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point.

Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933 and 1960 led the carriers with a turnover of 346 bonds and a gain of about a point. A number of the rail securities, however, recorded small losses and most of the firm ones closed under their high levels. The B. & O. list responded to a report that the company might anticipate maturity of the 1933 issue with a payment of half in cash and the remainder in new bonds, provided the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would advance the funds.

Both the utilities and industrials were barely able to hold around their previous positions. The foreign section was fairly firm with the Argentines recovering gains of from 1 to 4 points.

$1,000,000 in Profits Made By Farmers' Grain Group

Chicago, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, who meet in annual session Tuesday, will be told by their president, Clarence E. Huff, that the cooperative has netted approximately $1,000,000 during the last year in its handling of approximately one-fifth of the Nation's grain business.

Mr. Huff, the Salina, Kans., preacher-farmer, who rose to prominence in the cooperative marketing movement, today revealed the corporation's earnings, made, he said, despite the collapse in grain prices.

CURB UPTURN HALTS IN SELLING BATTLES

Break Becomes Decisive as Big Board Begins to Record Declines.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Running into a heavy storm of profit-taking late today, the curb market experienced its first real setback since the inception of the July-August bull move.

From the start, leading stocks showed a tendency to slip back, but found enough support to prevent substantial losses until the scales were turned by a sharp break on the big board. Volume was smaller, amounting to 490,000 shares, compared with 600,000 shares yesterday.

The reversal was most severe in stocks which had made a runaway move in the advance. Aluminum Co. of America dropped 6 points, Great Atlantic & Pacific, 7; Gulf Oil, 3, and Babcock & Wilcox, 2. Utilities hardest hit were Electric Bond & Share, with a drop of 4 points; Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, 7; American Gas & Electric, 1½; Duke Power, 3, and Utility Power & Light, 3½.

Wheat Marketing to Be Planned.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Measures for marketing western Canada's 425,000,000-bushel wheat crop this fall will be discussed tomorrow in Regina when western premiers meet prairie pool chiefs.

WHEAT VALUES LOSS IS ALMOST 3 CENTS

Other Slumps React on Grains; Corn and Oats Decline Also.

Chicago, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Vulnerable to the effects of stock market weakness, wheat fell almost 3 cents a bushel today, and ended at the day's bottom levels.

Increasing receipts of domestic spring wheat, together with emphasis on a big exportable North American surplus, and good rains in the Canadian Northwest, were contributing bearish factors.

Wheat closed unsteady, 2¼ to 2⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ⅝ down; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal advance.

Heavy selling from commission houses attended the final break in wheat, and was accomplished by unconfirmed rumors of an agreement at Ottawa giving Canadian wheat a 2-cent British Empire preference.

Arrivals of between 600 and 700 cars of grain at Minneapolis told of harvest pressure of new spring wheat. Meanwhile, Liverpool reported only meager demand for actual wheat, and various Chicago trade authorities, friendly, of late to the buying side, suggested awaiting the appearance of export takings before becoming pronounced speculative purchasers. North American wheat export business today was estimated at 700,000 bushels, practically all Canadian.

Better shipping demand imparted relative firmness to corn and oats.

Hog market upturns steadied provisions.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—New financing totaling $5,637,458 is scheduled by 35 municipalities for the next week, says the Daily Bond Buyer. Pittsburgh is offering the only large issue, a $2,300,000 block of bonds scheduled to be sold on Tuesday.

Railroad conferences held this week were productive of some interesting developments, but the meeting today to discuss the four-party consolidation program as modified by the Interstate Commerce Commission, proved as empty of news as the many previous consolidation meetings. It is general opinion in rail quarters that the Eastern executives will hold many sessions before reaching a complete accord on the present merger plan.

Those familiar with financial policies of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. now appear expectant that the directors will declare a regular dividend of $2.25 a share at next Wednesday's meeting. Although the company has been drawing on reserves for maintenance of the payment thus far, optimists are pointing out that the Bell System still has surplus, including cash and investments, of about $316,000,000, and that it is faced with no important financial requirements in the next few months.

Passengers carried on air transport lines during the first six months of 1932 numbered 228,834, an increase of nearly 30 per cent over the same 1931 period, says the aeronautical chamber of commerce.

The Annalist's Index of wholesale commodity prices rose sharply in the last week, touching the highest point since January.

The New York cotton exchange service estimates cotton consumption by domestic mills in July at 383,000 bales against 321,000 in June and 451,000 a year ago.

London Escapes Slump In Wall Street Losses

London, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The severe setback on the New York Stock Exchange today came several hours after the London exchange had shut up shop for the week-end on fairly good tone.

With the London exchange closed tomorrow some speculators may be caught, but the belief in financial circles was that most of the British buying in New York had been on an investment basis.

RECOVERY REVEALED IN MARKET SURVEYS

105 Leading Centers Report Better Sales, With Easier Collections.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Nation-wide sales conditions reveal a heartening upturn in the August survey of collections and sales conditions compiled from 105 major markets of the country by Credit and Finance Management, official publication of the National Association of Credit Men. This emphasizes further the press reports from various sections which find new signs of life in many industries.

Collections, necessarily slower in reflecting improvement, since the benefit of increased sales is passed on to creditors after about a month, therefore show no betterment this month according to an analysis of the reports submitted by the correspondents taking part in this month's survey.

Louisiana finds collections and sales in New Orleans also fair, but one section of the State reports sales as being good. Jackson, Mich., states that "there has been a noticeable changed from slow to fair in collections while sales have improved as well."

Duluth, Minn., makes the same observations and from St. Paul comes word of excellent crop conditions. Newark, N. J., finds improvement in collections and sales, and Binghamton, N. Y., relays a general report of fair business conditions in that area, with two sections there noting good sales.

Association of Harry M. Fridley, jr., with the Washington office of Westheimer & Co., was announced yesterday. Mr. Fridley formerly was manager of the local office of Wright, Slade & Co. at the Mayflower Hotel and later was with Clark, Childs & Keech. A native of Washington, Mr. Fridley was employed by the United States Savings Bank, the Munsey Trust Co. and was an assistant cashier of the former Dupont National Bank before going to New York to enter the brokerage business.

B. & O. Plans Bond Settlement Trade

Owners Sought to Study Proposal of Payment Before Maturity.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The names and addresses of large holders of $63,250,000 4½ per cent convertible bonds, maturing March 1, 1933, are being sought by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The railroad, it was reported today is ferreting out the bondholders with the purpose of discussing a proposal to meet the maturities before the end of this year with a payment of half the face value of the securities in cash and the remainder with new bonds.

While the company's plan has not been definitely worked out, it was understood its successful completion would depend on the floating of a loan with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

COTTON PRICES DROP ON SOUTH'S SELLING

December Dips to 7.33 as Losses Mount 30 Points; Liverpool Hedges.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Cotton reacted sharply today with December contracts selling off to 7.33, or $1.50 per bale below the previous closing. More Southern selling was reported while realizing was active on the decline and closing quotations were at the lowest of the day on most positions with the tone barely steady at net declines of 30 to 33 points.

Trade buying and covering combined with commission house demand took care of the selling at the decline and caused rallies of a few points, but the market eased again and reached the lowest levels near the close, when the market was affected by weakness in stocks and wheat. October declined to 7.15 and March to 7.54, closing at these figures.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated domestic consumption for July at 252,000 bales compared with 320,000 in June.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and general liquidation in that market, influenced by the strike threat in Lancashire.

British Investors Get Credit For Aiding Wall Street Boom

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—Financial statisticians are now giving the British a large part of the credit for the present stock market boom.

Along with the optimistic termination of the Lausanne conference, the Bank of England reduced its discount rate to 2 per cent, the lowest since 1897 and, coincidentally, the British treasury announced the long-expected plan for the conversion of war loans, aggregating some $7,000,000,000, from 5 per cent to 3½ per cent.

While the conversion scheme was generally approved, and the 2 per cent discount rate did not bring an upheaval, a large portion of the British bond-holding public began to figure up its lower security yields and, it is said, cast its eyes on the American market.

Legion Post Backs W.,B.& A. Terminal

Terminal in Annapolis So Service Can Continue Is Objective.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 12.—The American Legion Post of Annapolis at a meeting tonight joined the movement for the establishment of a union railway terminal at Bladen street, so that the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad may continue to operate its cars through a certain section of the city to make connections with the ferries of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co.

A petition to this effect addressed to the city council, which originated with the Civitan Club, also has the indorsement of the Rotary Club and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The railway, which has been in receivership for nearly two years, faces the dilemma of discontinuing operations in the city, because the city council refused to renew a 25-year franchise that expired last July 1. Meanwhile, the matter was taken into the Federal court, which passed an order giving the railway a time extension until August 31 to cease operations and to remove its tracks from city streets in accordance with provisions of the original franchise.

The petition is to be considered at a special meeting of the municipal authorities next week.

U. S. Suit on Alleged Coal Trust Is Closed

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The Government's dissolution suit against Appalachian Coals, Inc., and 136 coal operators alleged to have organized in violation of the Sherman antitrust law, was brought to a close here today.

Closing arguments were made by Col. William J. Donovan, of New York, for the defense, and John Lord O'Brian, Assistant Attorney General, for the Government. A decision is not expected for several weeks.

$11.75 COTTON RISE IS RESULT OF BUYING

Impetus Added by Report of Crop Shortage; Halt Follows Selling.

New York, Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The Government report indicating a cotton crop of only 11,306,000 bales or about 900,000 bales below average expectations, was followed by an active general buying movement in the cotton market here this week. The effect of the crop figures was evidently intensified by the more optimistic view of the general business outlook, which found further encouragement in the strength of the stock market during the earlier part of the week, and there was a distinct broadening of both trade and speculative interest.

The advance met some Southern selling and a good deal of realizing, but December contracts, which had been selling around 6.34 at the end of the previous week, sold up to 7.65 before the advance was more than momentarily checked.

At this price the market showed a recovery of 235 points, or approximately $11.75 per bale from the low record price of early last June, while 8-cent cotton came back on the quotation boards for the later deliveries for the first time since the market broke on the August crop indication last year.

Realizing became more active at the higher prices and reactionary sentiment was rather more in evidence toward the end of the week.

London Sees Bond Rise In America Maintained

London Aug. 12 (A.P.).—The Economist, prominent British financial newspaper, in a long editorial on the Wall street boom today, said that "on the whole one may expect the recovery of American fixed interest securities to be maintained or even advanced."

"The future course of equity shares which have attracted speculative, rather than investment buying," it added, "remains a gamble upon the next movement of commodity prices."

Economy to Keep Akron From Races

Marine Planes, However, to Go to Cleveland for August 27 Event.

(Associated Press.)

The Government's economy program and an intensive training schedule will prevent the airship Akron, the Navy's aerial pride, from going to the national air races at Cleveland on August 27.

This was made known yesterday by Secretary Adams in a letter replying to a request from officials of the races that the Akron be sent. A request for some marine planes was granted. An observation squadron from Quantico will go to Cleveland after a flight to Montreal, to take part in an air pageant.

DUKE CHARGES BIAS TO POLICE JUSTICE

Handling of Cases of Three Veterans by Judge Given Opposed by Lawyer.

Charging that Police Court Judge Ralph Given was "biased and prejudiced," Jesse C. Duke, an attorney, acting on behalf of three members of the B. E. F., yesterday filed in Police Court a motion that had the effect of taking from Judge Given the cases of the three men. Immediately upon reading the motion, Judge Given intimated that he would certify the cases to Judge Isaac F. Hitt.

Learning of this, Mr. Duke informed Judge Given that he would promptly file a similar motion charging bias and prejudice to Judge Hitt. Acting on that, Judge Given decided to wait until today to certify the cases to the remaining two judges in Police Court.

Assaulting Police Charged.

Duke filed the motion on behalf of Bernard McCoy, John O. Olson and Braddus Faulkner, who are to be tried on charges of assaulting three policemen during the eviction of the B. E. F. from the Third street and Pennsylvania avenue camp.

The cause for the motion was the denial by Judge Given of Duke's request for subpenas for the city editors and managing editors of the local newspapers, for the managers of Washington's news services and for newsreel photographers.

Mr. Duke explained that pictures and other evidence vital to the defense of his three clients could be produced by the persons named in the subpenas.

Subpenas Are Refused.

Judge Given flatly refused to sign the subpenas and Duke then filed the motion, which had been prepared by McCoy, Olson and Faulkner and also by Joe T. Granger, who was also a member of the B. E. F.

Subsequent to this Duke filed a second motion alleging that Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh had been in contempt of Police Court ten days ago when he used language that Mr. Duke considered unjustifiable and unethical.

Keogh used the so-called offensive language in opposing a motion by Duke for a new trial in the cases of Pomeroy Gravely and Harold Irwin, who had been sentenced by Judge Hitt to 180 days in jail. Duke's motion for a new trial was denied at that time.

$35,000 Bond Required Of 2 Robbery Suspects

Police Court Judge Ralph Given yesterday remanded Peter J. Dunican, 35 years old, and George V. Jacobus, 24 years old, under heavy bonds for the action of the grand jury on robbing gasoline stations. Dunican was held for $25,000 and Jacobus was held for $10,000.

A woman, Helene Morgan, arrested with the pair, was not charged. Both men entered pleas of not guilty.

Self-Appointed Traffic Director Is Fined $10

Seventh and R streets northwest is no place to direct traffic—when one is somewhat under the influence of liquor, Edward Jackson, colored, found out yesterday in Police Court.

Policemen said they arrested him when snarled traffic at that point attracted their attention to Jackson, who was standing in the intersection waving all traffic in every direction. He was fined $10 for drunkenness.

Northwest to Get Cinema Theater

Will Seat 1,200 and Be on Kennedy Street Between Fourth and Fifth.

A new neighborhood motion picture theater and shopping center for the northwest section of the city is revealed in the purchase by Theater Builders, Inc., 225 Broadway, New York City, of an unimproved tract of ground on the south side of Kennedy street midway between Fourth and Fifth streets northwest. The land was acquired from Margaret Polwarth and Martha F. Riess at an undisclosed cost, Weaver Bros., Inc., conducting the negotiations.

Theater Builders, Inc., under present plans, will begin construction in approximately 60 days. The building will be 150 by 140 feet in dimensions, with a two-story auditorium having a seating capacity of 1,200 and a one-story front containing space for eight stores. The building will be of brick and limestone structure and English style architecture.

The New York corporation has leased the projected structure to an undisclosed national theater chain for a period of 20 years at an unreported consideration. Walter W. Ahlschlager, 295 Madison avenue, New York City, is the architect.

Tickets Free No Longer; Police Are Selling Them

Police are no longer giving away tickets—they are selling them.

A patrolman from each precinct, who must be a "good salesman," has been detailed to see that motorists and others buy their share of tickets. No charge accounts will be opened and terms are strictly cash—in advance.

These tickets, however, do not call for an appearance in Police Court. Instead the holder is requested to occupy a seat at the coming annual police and firemen's baseball game, to be held Labor Day in Griffith Stadium.

FLIER USES CHUTE AS AIRPLANE DIVES

Test Pilot Leaps Into Noted Caterpillar Club While Craft Is Demolished.

W. K. Ebel, test pilot of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co., of Baltimore, joined the famed Caterpillar Club yesterday at the Navy flight test station at Dahlgren, Va., when the ship he was flying failed to come out of a spin and he jumped with his parachute. He was uninjured.

Ebel had taken the ship up to show its worth to a Navy trial board. It was an experimental light bomber, and had been at the Naval Air Station for a week. Preliminary tests were run off several days ago. The ship was demolished.

A plane piloted by Lieut. Clyde W. Smith, of the Bureau of Aeronautics, nosed over while landing yesterday at the Naval Air Station at Norfolk, Va. Lieut. Smith received minor injuries. Seaman W. E. Bly, a passenger, was not injured.

Lieut. Smith is in charge of the instruments section of the Bureau of Aeronautics. He was flying to Norfolk when the accident occurred.

Kind Police Show Lost Youth Sights

Boy, on Way North, Gets Off Here; Patrol Wagon Used in City Tour.

Alton Godley, 11-year-old Greenville (S. C.) boy, last night made a tour of the points of interest in Washington in a patrol wagon with a policeman as announcer. His being in Washington was a mistake, but he got a big kick out of it.

Alton had been put on a train at his home for a trip to Philadelphia to visit his mother, Mrs. Eva Douglas. He said that when the train got to Washington "everybody seemed to get off." So he got off, too.

After wandering around a while, he wound up at Fourteenth and U streets northwest, where he explained his plight to Private J. L. Hall, of the Second Precinct. Alton was taken to precinct headquarters and then sent to Union Station via points of interest. Assisted by the Travelers Aid, he was on his way to Philadelphia early today.

Buzzards Point is now located between the Washington Navy Yard and the Army War College. It is being developed as a commercial area.

James F. Duhamel, local historian prominently associated with the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, is sponsoring a movement to name the area Duddington.

P.U.C. STUDIES LIGHT COSTS TO DISTRICT

Public Hearing Is Possible Result of Move to Aid Local Economy.

Believing that the electric rates charged the District government for lighting streets and public buildings are too high, the Public Utilities Commission has launched an inquiry that may lead to a public hearing. William A. Roberts, special counsel, has prepared a memorandum on the matter.

Attempting to economize in every department because of an expected reduction in revenue during the next fiscal year, the District Commissioners believe that the cost of electric lighting should come down. Last year the District government paid $828,000 for street lighting and $165,000 for lighting school and other municipal buildings.

A study has been under way for more than a year regarding the cost of building and maintaining a municipal power plant, but no estimates have been made public. A report was submitted to Congress last winter, but it was returned with instructions for more definite information in certain particulars.

The electric light bills of the District government have been cut each year that the rate to the average consumer has dropped, but the Commissioners believe that it is still excessive.

Mrs. N. L. Dasburg Sues for Divorce

Daughter of Late F. K. Lane Charges Artist-Husband With Cruelty.

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Mrs. Nancy Lane Dasburg, daughter of the late Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of Interior, yesterday filed suit for divorce in Santa Fe, N. Mex., against her husband, Andrew Dasburg, noted artist, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Mrs. Dasburg, who before her first divorce was Mrs. Philip C. Kauffmann, was widely known in Washington social and theatrical circles. She made her home here for some time while her father was a member of President Wilson's Cabinet. She was first married in 1920. The affair was attended by many socially prominent Washingtonians, including President Wilson. Mrs. Dasburg and Kauffmann were divorced six years later.

In 1928 she married Dasburg in New York. Last Wednesday Dasburg filed suit against his wife and her mother, Mrs. Anne Lane, charging they dispossessed him of his property. Mrs. Dasburg also charged nonsupport in her suit.

Mrs. Dasburg is the author of several books.

MARVIN STRESSES AMERICANS' UNISON

Hispanic American Affairs Conference Holds Final Session at G. W.

The future destiny of democracy depends on the willingness of the American nations to solve their problems on a basis of equality through terms of mutual understanding and agreement, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, said yesterday before the concluding session of the university's conference of Hispanic-American affairs.

"Through such understanding," he said, "we will maintain the integrity of the American system and eventually Europe and the rest of the world will realize that the democratic principles that have ripened on American soil will prevail because they are fundamental to the type of social and political system that allows men and women to develop to their utmost capacities with a modicum of interference."

Dr. A. Curtis Wilgus, professor of Hispanic-American history at the university, who directed the conference, reviewed the political, economic and social status of the Hispanic-American republics.

The conference, which brought to Washington the leading scholars in the field of Hispanic-American studies, covered every phase of Hispanic-American life. Among the leaders who participated were Dr. Victor A. Belaunde, of the University of San Marcos, Peru; Dr. J. F. Normano, Brazilian educator; Dr. Spencer Vampre, of the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and Dr. E. Gil Borjes, assistant director of the Pan-American Union.

Hit by Mail Truck, Boy, 3, Near Death

Slim Hope for Recovery of James Sugart, Struck in Crossing Street.

A 3-year-old boy is near death in Emergency Hospital from injuries suffered yesterday when struck and thrown several feet by a mail truck as he attempted to cross the street at Seventh and Maryland avenue southwest.

James Sugart, of 700 Sixth street southwest, was playing with several older children near his home. He broke away from the group and ran down the street. At Seventh and Maryland avenue he ran from the curb directly in the path of the truck.

Julian Renfro, 32 years old, of 1901 Kearny street northeast, who police said was driving the truck, declared he did all in his power to avoid striking the child. Renfro took the boy to Emergency Hospital, where it was found he suffered a fractured skull, possible fracture of the left shoulder and severe lacerations. Little hope is held for his recovery.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

METROPOLITAN

"RESERVED FOR LADIES." Paramount picturization of a story by Ernest Vajda, starring Leslie Howard, with George Grossmith, Elizabeth Allan and Benita Hume. Directed by Alexander Korda. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

This is a picture that has always been good and one which in its modern articulate form becomes even better than before in the deft hands of an excellently chosen English cast, led by that most accomplished and most polished of imported artists, Mr. Leslie Howard.

As the story unfolds, the seasoned disciple of the cinema will recognize an old favorite in the revamped version of the silent comedy of caste in which Adolphe Menjou scored one of his most notable successes under the much more appropriate title of "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter." In its rejuvenated treatment, this tale of a popular young headwaiter of a smart London luxury hotel, who falls in love with a young woman of aristocratic lineage, only to learn—and unlearn—that so vast a social chasm may not easily be bridged, becomes one of the most rational, most distinguished and most delightfully sophisticated of the screen's audible satires.

Mr. Howard, as a vulnerable Casanova of the casseroles is fortunate in being surrounded by a group of players quite as capable as he of creating and sustaining the illusion of gentility at play. It is this uniform and rare capability that lends an added charm to those scenes at a winter sports hotel in the Austrian Tyrol in which a reigning monarch, traveling incognito, plays so important a part in the heart affair of the prandial philosopher-lover by scrupulously preserving his incognito, also.

In addition, then, to the flawless miming of Leslie Howard, whose Max is as sensitive and fine a bit of portraiture as has come along in a month of Sundays, there are George Grossmith, contributing a priceless touch of satirical humor to the comedy's quaint situations as the king; Elizabeth Allan, impersonating the object of Max's adulation with disarming naivete; Morton Selten, hauntingly suggestive of the late William Howard Taft, as her father; Benita Hume, the Countess Ricardi, rendering a mesalliance with one apparently beneath her social station completely explicable, and Ben Field doing a very great deal with the role of Brealmayer, most obsequious of the bonifaces.

There is about the entire production a quality of elegance in thorough keeping with the stratum of society in which the pivotal figures of the fable ostensibly move.

The auxiliary attractions are numerous and varied. Foremost is an S. S. Van Dine crime subject, "The Campus Mystery," necessarily with a college background. The Talkertoon comedy, "A Hunting We Will Go" and the Paramount Sound News further augment an entertainment that is worth attending, if for no other reason, just to attempt the discovery of why the feature was ever called "Reserved for Ladies."

COLUMBIA

"DYNAMITE RANCH." Tiffany picturization of a story by Barry Barrington, starring Ken Maynard. Directed by Forrest Sheldon. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

Just an old-fashioned Western thriller, but giving complete satisfaction as such, this melodrama takes you back to your childhood days, when applause for the hero was part of the show. It still is.

Ken Maynard, one of the new crop of "Bill Harts," is likeable as the hero; Ruth Hall is pleasing enough to the eye as the heroine; Allan Roscoe, as the villain, suggests William (stage) Boyd, while Arthur Hoyt provides sufficient comedy.

The story involves a fake train holdup, a crooked ranch foreman, the tracing of a stolen express package and a breath-taking chase at the finish as an automobile careens down a mountain road with the villain dashing to destruction while the hero escapes with the money in the nick of time. You can't beat that familiar formula for excitement and the characters in this horse opera are above average. The film also includes one of the noisiest fights on record as Maynard battles with his adversaries on the tile roof of the ranch house.

Variety marks the auxiliary program, headed by three acts of vaudeville in a short called, "Voice of Vaudeville." It offers The Ramblers, the Yaconelli Brothers and the Carolina Crooners in acceptable vocal numbers. Louise Carter is featured in a dramatic skit called "Clouds," with Ralph Bellamy in the cast. "Wonder Gems," a new travelogue series, is begun and there is the usual issue of Paramount Sound News.

EARLE

"JEWEL ROBBERY." Warner Bros picturization of Ladislaus Fodor's story, adapted to the screen by Erwin Gelsey, starring Kay Francis and William Powell. Directed by William Dieterle. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Like one of The Robber's laughing cigarettes is this delightful extravaganza, done very much in the smart, airy, continental style made so justly popular by the team of Lubitsch, Chevalier and McDonald—only minus the music.

One of the very nicest surprises of the year is Kay Francis, that usually statuesque and dignified tragedienne or vampire, as the case may be, having an even better time than the audience in the divertingly silly role of Baroness Teri and proving herself a deft farceur. And is she lovely to look at!

It's all about Teri, a bored and frivolous merry wife of Vienna, and a super-crook, rather in the manner of Arsene Lupin. There is really no plot to tell. Mary Ellis and Basil Sydney trod its measures and spoke its lines on the Belasco boards just last season.

William Powell is at his suave and attractive best as the bold, bad, brilliant, Emily-Post-ish stealer of gems and purveyor of romance and adventure. Hardie Albright, Spencer Charters and Helen Vinson help matters along, particularly Charters as Lenz.

It is a thoroughly tasty, spicy and heady little cocktail, with exactly the right last bubble of intrigue and fun to end it all.

The always pleasant and welcome actor, Bert Lytell, graces the stage this week. It is with some regret that we report he seems to have played his great favorite, and our, "The Valiant," just a few times too often. His performance as James Dyke lacks some of the authority and praiseworthy repression it had when last we saw him play it, but he still carries the excellent one-actor nobly.

Leon Navara, warms up as he goes along and when he really gets to work on his piano, plays charmingly and clicks easily. The Pirate Queens cavort a la whirling dervishes to hearty applause to begin things on the stage; Al K. Hall ends them with an act notable only for Hall, jr.'s, dancing and its cumbersome and questionable slap-stick and bawdy humor.

Maxine Doyle, in pretty gowns and a swell sunburn from Shady Side and the Glen Echo roller coaster, introduces the acts, with a new "Thank You."

A Ted Husing "Sportslants" and the newsreel complete the bill.

LOEW'S FOX

"DOWNSTAIRS." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by, and starring, John Gilbert, with Paul Lukas, Virginia Bruce, Olga Baclanova and Bedil Rosing. Directed by Monta Bell. Reviewed Friday night by W. A. Whitney.

Good old John—he's gone and done it. He has proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that he can both write 'em and act 'em. For the most part forsaking his osculatory demonstrations, and going in more for real acting, John Gilbert comes crashing through, in his "Downstairs" with as delightful a mixture of blackmail, love-making and gentlemanly knavery as could be desired.

Whether Mr. Gilbert really means to burlesque John Barrymore, or is seriously trying to reinstate himself in the screen's major constellation is of little moment—for he does both successfully. With Virginia Bruce, Olga Baclanova and Bedil Rosing as foils for his twinklin eye and alluring manner, he leaves little to be desired, even for the lukewarm Gilbertist.

"Downstairs" is a tale of the servants' quarters, with an occasional sallying forth to the upstairs. For the most part the action revolves around Karl's attempt to win Anna, already the bride of Albert, the butler, with the cook's bankroll taken over to boot, as a sideline. Of course, the intrigue is unsuccessful, but in its unraveling there is plenty of action and excellent opportunities appear for all the members of the cast to display their talents.

As it was with "Arsene Lupin," Mr. Gilbert's role is head and shoulders above any other, although that of Albert, the husband, excellently played by Paul Lukas, is only slightly less replete with dramatic possibilities. Although the upstairs is more for atmosphere, Olga Baclanova and Reginald Owen are highly acceptable in offering the contrast of positions, yet involved in situations not entirely dissimilar.

Impersonations are the order of the day in "Star Night in the Cocoanut Grove," with Danny Beck, Consuela Gonzales, Paul Jones, Steve Savage, Anna Chang, Julian Hall—under the ceremony-mistressing of Cinemactress Betty Compson—doing such celebrities as Charlie Chaplin, Anna May Wong, Robert Montgomery, Harry Langdon, Lupe Valez, Marlene Dietrich and Joe E. Brown. Dorothy June does some stepping and Wesley Eddy sings a few of his best numbers.

A Magic Carpet release, "Birds of the Sea;" Flip the Frog, as "The Office Boy," and an issue of the Fox Movietone News round out the bill.

PALACE

"GUILTY AS HELL." Paramount picturization of the play, "Riddle Me This," by Daniel L. Rubin, adapted to the screen by Arthur Kober and Frank Partos, featuring Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, Adrienne Ames and Richard Arlen. Directed by Eric Kenton. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Capt. Flagg and Sergt. Quirt are at it again!

To be sure, they are known this time as Capt. McKinley, head of the detective bureau down at headquarters, and Russel Kirk, newspaper reporter, but neither their indefatigable wrangling nor their method has changed one iota—unless you count the substitution of "My pal!" for "Sez you!"

Whether Victor McLaglen, with his vagrant British accents, is a convincing plain clothes man, or Edmund Lowe a believable newspaper man, is beside the point that in this screen adaptation of last season's "Riddle Me This," these persistent antagonists are as colorfully and effectively cast as when both wore the uniform of the U. S. Marines.

"Guilty as Hell" is unique among stage crime stories in that it keeps no secrets from the audience while it is consistently baffling its principal characters, engaged in the complex task of bringing a murderer to justice. Furthermore, it takes itself none too seriously. Even the tenseat of its situation are made to contribute to the steady flow of comedy that runs through the entire length of the picture's footage. It is perhaps to be doubted that the corpse of a beautiful young woman, awaiting the arrival of the coroner, is the most appealing source of gayety that might be hit upon, but "Guilty as Hell" has simply made up its mind to be waggish and there seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

In addition to the Messrs. McLaglen and Lowe, who long ago were proved sure-fire in their rowdy tactics there are many others who aid in making this one of the least stereotyped of the mystery yarns. Prominent among them are Henry Stephenson and Richard Arlen, whose activities are least of all dedicated to laughter; Adrienne Ames, as Mr. Arlen's distraught sister; Ralph Ince and Noel Francis, a pair of renegades ready to perjure themselves in any one's behalf for a dollar; Elizabeth Patterson, Willard Robertson, Richard Tucker, William Davidson, Fred Kelsey and a good many more.

Supplementing the feature are a Mack Sennett comedy, "Neighbor Trouble," which has its typically Sennett moments; a James A. Fitzpatrick travelreel, "Home, Sweet Home, the World Over;" a Krazy Kat cartoon "The Paper Hanger," and the Hearst Movietone News.

A swell spot for two hours of agreeable relaxation—unless you take your murders seriously. Even so, you won't be bored!

Field inspection of the equipment of the men will be held tomorrow morning, followed by an afternoon of cessation from all military duties except specials details and interior guard.

Real Estate Man Here Held On Jury Tampering Charge

Frost Mills, 44, of 1504 Upshur street northwest, was arrested by headquarters detectives last night on a warrant from Chester, Pa., charging, among five counts, jury tampering during the recent trial of four officers of the Suburban Title & Trust Co., of Upper Darby, Pa. The bank closed May, 1931.

The warrant, sworn to by Constable Samuel L. Wheaton, of Chester, charged Mills, a local real estate salesman, with blackmail, obstructing justice, embracery, conspiracy to obstruct justice, and conspiracy to commit embracery.

According to Detective Sergts. A. D. Mansfield and R. J. Cox, who have been working on the case for the past two weeks, Mills approached the four officers of the bank, then on trial for violation of various provisions of State banking laws and offered, for the sum of $4,000, to effect their acquittal. The men refused saying they were innocent. The alleged tamperings with the jury at this time are said to have reacted unfavorably against the defendants.

Defendants at the trial, which lasted from June 20 to July 10, included George Wilcox, president of the bank; John M. Hardcastle, vice president and trust officer; Nicholas A. Dalton, vice president, and George W. Statzel, jr., director. A verdict of guilty on from one to 23 counts was returned. A motion for a new trial was made.
